SODEN MINERAL PASTILLES

Were awarded THE HIGHEST DISTINCTION, at the International Exhibition at Brussels, by a Medical Jury.

A FIRST-CLASS REMEDY IN Pectoral, Throat and Lung Diseases.

Soden Mineral Pastilles are prepared by the evaporation of the water from the most efficient springs of the German health resort, Soden, a. T.

Soden Mineral Pastilles are a first-class remedy in all catarrhal complaints of the organs of respiration and digestion.

Soden Mineral Pastilles are used most extensively in all civilized countries of the world.

Soden Mineral Pastilles are prescribed by doctors in diseases of the lungs and chest, consumption and asthma. The benefit derived from their use is unexcelled, and even in chronic cases their action is alleviating, quieting and stimulant.

Soden Mineral Pastilles deserve the preference of all similar preparations, because they are a natural remedy, an unadulterated product of the springs, containing without deterioration the sanative qualities of the natural springs.

SIR MORELL MACKENZIE writes: "I have watched the effects of the Soden Waters for a considerable period and regard them as extremely valuable in obstinate catarrhal affections of the throat. The small amount of iron which they contain renders them very useful in the stages of Throat Consumption, and they do good in nearly all cases of relaxation of the mucous membrane. "The Pastilles offer a most convenient method of using the waters; producing both a local and general effect. They are especially beneficial in catarrhal diseases of the air passages; I have frequently found them of great service in the case of Singers and Public Speakers.

"Signed, MORELL MACKENZIE, M.D., London, late Physician to the London Hospital, Consulting Physician to the Hospital for Diseases of the Throat, Golden Square, and Physician to the Royal Society of Musicians, 2d September, 1887."

Soden Mineral Pastilles are doubly valuable, inasmuch as they produce simultaneously the most favorable effect upon the organs of digestion. In catarrh of the stomach, hemorrhoids and habitual constipation they cause the healing and restoration of the diseased organs by reason of their exceedingly mild action.

For sale by all druggists. Should your Druggist not keep them, please address,

BEACH, THE INFORMER.

His Efforts to Implicate Mr. Parnell in Dynamite Plots.

The Irish Leader's Sudden Appearance in Court Creates a Sensation.

Beach Endeavors to Turn Private Conversations Into Startling Revelations—Editor O'Brien to Be Removed to Another Jail—English Business Houses in China Attacked by a Mob—Count Tolstoi, Russian Minister of the Interior, to Resign—The Austrian Tragedy—Foreign News.

LONDON, February 6.—Mr. Parnell's appeal from the decision of the Scotch Court in his case against Mr. John Walter of the Times for libel, will be heard at Edinburgh during the summer rolls of court.

THE PARNELL COMMISSION.

Mr. Parnell was present at the session of the Parnell Commission to-day. He held a lively conversation with Mr. Michael Davitt. The witness Beach, who is also known as Dr. Le Caron, continued his evidence. He detailed a conversation which he had with Mr. Alexander Sullivan, in June, 1881, regarding a proposed alliance of the different Irish organizations, in which Mr. Sullivan said that no radical change could be effected until they had a change of representatives on this side of the water, which would be very soon. Mr. Sullivan, referring to a visit to Ireland, which he contemplated making, said he could not think of allowing Mr. Parnell to pay his expenses, as doing so would place Mr. Parnell in a false position. Mr. Sullivan bitterly opposed the discussion of this matter in open convention on the ground that it would leak out and compromise the Parnellite party.

DYNAMITE OPERATIONS.

Witness stated that a conference of the "F. C." was held on August 3, 1881. The meeting discussed preparations for dynamite operations and recommended the formation of classes in mining engineering. At a secret meeting held prior to the convention, Delegate D. Omahon Connor attacked the revolution directory for its inactivity during the preceding two years. He said he had made certain suggestions which had not been executed. These suggestions included the rescue of Mr. Davitt from prison and the fitting out of an expedition to South America which should land upon territory recently occupied by the English. At this point Atty.-Gen. Webster for the Times read a document including an item for the subsidization of foreign newspapers.

A SUBMARINE TORPEDO BOAT.

The witness continued. He stated that Breslin was paid for building a submarine torpedo boat, which proved to be a failure. Another firm built a boat which lay on the New Jersey side of New York harbor four months, but was not used against British ships.

RUSSELL OBJECTS.

Witness said Mr. John O'Connor, an agent employed for carrying arms to Ireland, attended the convention as a representative of the Supreme Council of the Irish Republican Brotherhood. Sir Charles Russell of counsel for the Parnellites, objected to the detailing by the witness of the statement made by Mr. O'Connor on the ground that it had no bearing upon the case of Mr. Parnell. Attorney-General Webster said that Mr. Parnell was not the only one against whom charges had been made and upon the admission of the evidence, as O'Connor was an agent of the Irish Republican Brotherhood, of which several of the persons against whom charges had been brought had been proved to be members.

THE COURT'S RULING.

Sir Charles Russell objected, because he said it was a private conversation, and there was nothing connecting O'Connor with the men whom it was sought to criminate or showing that O'Connor was authorized to represent them. Presiding Justice Hannen said: "We are of the opinion that there is prima facie evidence that O'Connor was the medium of communication between members of the organization in Ireland and America."

Sir Charles Russell pursued his objection, and the witness, interposing, said he did not suppose that Mr. Parnell would deny that he had had the conversation referred to.

DECLARED TO BE EVIDENCE.

Sir Charles Russell said that the witness' alleged conversation with Mr. Parnell was to the effect that Mr. Parnell wished to inform the heads of the Irish organizations in America that he would like to act in connection with them. For that purpose Parnell was supposed to have commissioned the witness to see Alexander Sullivan and others. How did that make the conversation between the witness and O'Connor evidence against anybody?

Chief Justice Hannen: "So far as the evidence goes, the witness had a definite object. O'Connor represented to a certain extent both parties. The witness had a conversation with him regarding that very object. That is evidence."

ALL SATISFACTORY.

The witness, continuing, said that the conversation with O'Conner took place in the Palmer House in the presence of two others. O'Connor, in reply to witness' question as to how the matter stood, assured him that it was all satisfactory. Dr. Gallagher, witness' brother delegate and an official of the United Brotherhood, was present. He had several conversations with Dr. Gallagher.

RULED OUT.

Sir Charles Russell, interposing: "Is this evidence?" Attorney-General Webster, replying, said that Gallagher had been convicted of dynamite outrages in England. He submitted that the witness was stated that a policy of dynamite was proposed, evidence as to what the leading members did in preparing to execute such a policy was admissible. Chief Justice Hannen ruled that the conversations with Gallagher were not admissible.

THE LONDON BRIDGE EXPLOSION.

The witness said that he saw Mackay and Lomasney two days before Lomasney left America for the purpose of carrying out the plan of campaign by explosions, the details of which the witness could not give. Lomasney never returned and the organization had ever since supported his family and father. Witness believed that Lomasney and his brother, Michael Lomasney, perished in the London bridge explosion. The witness produced a circular which was read by Sir Henry James. It was dated September 1, 1881, and was distributed after the Chicago Convention. It was headed with the word "Caution," and read: "S. G.'s will read this document at the meeting following its receipt. After reading it twice they will burn it in the presence of the D. and J. G., of each D. and send to the Secretary of F. C. a statement that it was so burnt. If the S. G. fails to burn it the J. G. will report the fact."

OBJECTED TO FATHER BETTS.

After the reading of the circular the witness continued his testimony. He said that in compliance with instructions from headquarters he attended the Chicago Convention. T. F. O'Connor and Timothy Healy also attended. Rev. Mr. Betts was proposed for President of the convention, but the clerical element, representing the moral suasion section, objected to him. Betts belonged to the aggressive party. At the direct request of O'Connor this objection was withdrawn and Betts was unanimously elected. Several priests who approved a dynamite policy attended the convention.

FATHER SHEEHY'S SPEECH.

Attorney General Webster here quoted from the Irish Nation, extracts of a speech made in the convention by an Irish delegate, Father Sheehy, who advocated the abolition of landlordism and said he would give no quarter in Ireland until the country was nationally independent. The speech was delivered on January 3, 1882, and O'Connor and Healy were present at the time.

UNNATURAL GOVERNMENT.

The witness said he had received from the directory a circular giving a report of the proceedings of the convention. This circular stated that the doctrine which the convention had adopted was that a people living under an unnatural government and wishing to be under a natural one, were entitled to overthrow the unnatural government and establish a natural government in its place.

A SENSATION.

It was at this point that Mr. Parnell appeared in the court-room. His entrance created a sensation. The witness looked steadily at Parnell for several moments. Continuing his testimony, witness said that he sent copies of all documents of the Brotherhood to the English Government at the time. Since then they had not been in his possession.

The London Councils.

Special Cablegram to the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, February 6.—The gerrymanderers captured the London councils yesterday, after all. A compact minority of fifty-five carried eighteen aldermen, while the moderate majority of sixty-two scattered their votes and only elected one. The effect will probably be bad on home rule, justifying the belief that the Parnellite majority will ignore the rights of the minority and subordinate actual business to a hope of extorting further powers. The London aldermen include one woman, Miss Cons, the lady who manages the philanthropic coffee tavern in Music Hall and lives in the slums, looking after her house property. She is a remarkable woman, capable, intelligent, and the only female alderman existent.

EDITOR O'BRIEN.

O'Brien's restoration to his clothes and comfort is a surprise. The regulations were suspended either in deference to public clamor or to the prisoner's obstinacy. The excuse of ill health, necessitating hospital treatment, causes great indignation among the Liberals. The response to the national protest is very hearty. Balfour arrived in town this morning and will remain till Parliament meets.

A PANTOMINE CRUSADE.

A crusade, headed by Mrs. Fawcett against pantomine children, has been taken up by the School Board and causes much feeling on both sides. The philanthropists say the children are sacrificed to the pleasure of the theater-goers. The law is clear against the practice.

THE SUNDAY NEWSPAPER.

General opinion is hostile to the New York Herald's Sunday edition. The Archbishop of Canterbury and the Bishop of London appeal to journalists to oppose Sunday labor. One editor ridicules the idea that the Herald will continue publication any day, and its failure, intrinsically, is deserved. Frederic Harrison and Prof. Huxley comdemn Sunday labor. Broadhurst, the Labor Member of Parliament, says:

"I entirely sympathize with and approve the protest against seven days' journalism; the whole labor world is indebted for the protest, and unless in case of real necessity, Sunday labor should be opposed in all cases. I hope the nuisance and danger to our welfare will be tamped out.' EDITOR STEAD.

'Pall Mall Gazette.'

Rudolf's Widow.

Special Cablegram to the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, February 6.—The death of Rudolf is without doubt an immense advantage to Prince Bismarck. But one should not for that reason conclude that the unfortunate Prince was "removed." It is nearly certain that he did not commit suicide, and it is almost as certain that he "suicided." We all know that he did not make a love-match, and it is no secret that of the two princesses who were pointed out to him as desirable matches he took the one which the Hebrew beauty told him to take because she was the least likely ever to subjugate him. Crown Princess Stephanie has, so to speak, no eyes. Her husband called them eyes incapable of expressing any feelings but those of weariness and suspicion. I do not in the least blame the Crown Prince for having sought his feminine ideal

OUTSIDE OF MATRIMONY.

Can there be anything more horrible than a matrimonial status which is forced upon one? He was young, clever, original, freakish and without any steadying influence. His wife was wholly uninteresting and anything but pretty. Indeed, if she had been a chambermaid in a hotel nobody would have noticed her, so commonplace was her face. There was but little in her to attract attention. As she was splendidly provided for the Prince thought he did her no wrong by living as he liked. He, however, conceived a positive aversion for his wife when she began to show herself jealous, and great as was her prudence she was unable to conceal her bitterness of soul. A correspondent writes to me to point out that in a list which has been published here of the sovereigns, ex-sovereigns and princes who have died mysteriously, the name of Napoleon III. has been included. The latter, though I believe the fact has never been publicly stated, died while under chloroform, which had been administered to him when he was about to undergo a painful operation.

SEARCHING FOR A SITE.

THE PROPOSITION TO ERECT A NEW BUILDING FOR THE MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE.

The Surplus Fund, and How It Is Proposed to Invest It—Action Taken by the Real Estate Committee—New Locations Proposed—Views of Members of the Exchange.

Most corporations are unembarrassed by a superfluity of funds. The St. Louis Merchants' Exchange has, however, for several years past been seriously troubled with a surplus. The disposition to be made of this and the best method of investment, has proved a fruitful subject of discussion, and a number of propositions have been presented to the members of the Exchange looking toward its investment or disposition. On several occasions a proposition has been put to vote, authorizing the distribution of the surplus among the members of the Exchange. This, although receiving a majority of the votes cast, has invariably fallen short of the necessary three-fourths majority. A proposition was made several months ago to the effect that a part at least of the surplus fund, amounting now to nearly $500,000, should be put into stock of the Merchants' bridge. This proposition did not meet with the approval of the Board of Directors, and was never submitted to the Exchange.

THE REAL ESTATE COMMITTEE.

A little over a year ago, on the recommendation of Mr. Frank Gaiennie, a real estate committee was appointed, whose duty it should be to examine into the desirability of investing the surplus in a building to be used for the exchange. The reserve fund, which is now principally invested in United States bonds, brings in a revenue of less than 4 per cent, and many members were of the opinion that by owning its building the Exchange could avoid the payment of the present heavy rent and secure a better return for its money. The Real Estate Committee, of which Mr. Gaiennie was made Chairman, made inquiries concerning desirable locations, and one or two propositions were made, but none were regarded as entirely satisfactory and therefore the matter was not presented for decision to the Exchange. The results of the investigations of the committee were, however, handed over to its successor, and the inquiries pursued.

At a meeting held a few days ago it was decided to give wider publicity to the desire of the members to obtain information as to the sites available, and therefore it was voted to advertise for offers. The object of this is to secure the necessary data upon which a report to the Board of Directors can be based. It is understood that so far but two sites worthy of consideration have been offered, the present building and the old Armory Hall on the southwest corner of Fourth street and Washington avenue.

The Real Estate Committee is composed of the following-named gentlemen: Charles F. Orthwein, Frank Gaienne, M. McEnnis, Nathan Cole, E. C. Simmons, Hugh Rogers, E. O. Stanard, H. C. Haarstick and J. H. Teasdale.

THE CHAIRMAN'S STATEMENT.

Charles F. Orthwein, chairman of this committee, says it was appointed and organized about six months ago. It was created mainly for the reason that a great many of the members had become tired of paying rent for their present quarters and desired to own their own building. They had plenty of money to build such a structure as they needed as there was half a million dollars in the treasury. With such a fund on hand there was no occasion for paying rent to some one else as the means at hand were ample to build as good a hall as the one they were using. It could be built too with surrounding stores and offices which would afford a good percentage upon the investment. In calling for bids for another location it was not intended in any way to hurry the selection of a site. There was plenty of time to select a place and the committee was only availing themselves of this advantage, for the Exchange has a lease of the present premises with six years yet to run. The propriety of publicly announcing the desire to buy a site for a new Exchange building had been under discussion some time, but a at meeting of the committeea day or two since the members present authorized their Chairman to pubish the fact at his pleasure. Continuing, Mr. Orthwein said he did not think it was a good idea to delay the matter longer, not that there was any particular hurry about it, but that a good deal of time would be taken in determining upon and formally accepting any place that might be chosen, and after that was done much more would be consumed in the preparation of plans for the erection of such a structure as it was intended to build. Before all these details could be carried out and the new building finished, some years would necessarily elapse and therefore the present move was only to afford plenty of time in which to perfect all the arrangements that may be entered into for a change of location. Mr. Orthwein would not state his preference for a new site any more definitely than is set forth in the advertisement which calls for proposals on property situated between Third and Twelfth, Market, and Washington avenue. He said, however, that a good many of the members favored remaining in their present quarters, and that no other place could be accepted except upon a three-fourths vote of all members of the Exchange.

In reply to a question, Mr. Orthwein said that only two sites had so far been submitted for the consideration of the committee. One was from the owners of the present Chamber of Commerce, but they asked so much for the property the idea of buying it at their figure was out of the question. What the valuation was Mr. Orthwein would not say, as he considered that a private matter. The other offer came from representatives of Mrs. Edgar Ames, who proposed to sell the old Armory Hall, sometimes called Verandah Row, on Fourth street, between Washington avenue and St. Charles street. This property did not strike the committee favorably, principally for the reason that it was not large enough, the intention being to construct a building that will afford a hall as large as the one now occupied, 92x210 feet.

MR. GAIENNIE'S VIEWS.

Frank Gaiennie, the former President of the Real Estate Committee and its founder, in answer to a question as to the meaning of the movement said: "We have on hand about $370,000 in United States bonds, the premium on which will amount to about $90,000 more. Besides this we have about $6,000 in other bonds, in all about $470,000. How to dispose of this fund has been a serious question, and has originated the idea of investing it in a building for the Exchange. It now brings in but a small interest, and in my opinion could be best placed in a building which would be at once worthy of the Exchange and an ornament to the city. Besides this, it would bring the city a revenue, by being transferred from non-taxable bonds to taxable property. The lease of our present quarters has nearly seven years to run, but I believe in taking time by the forelock, and buying property as soon as we can, if it is deemed best to invest the surplus fund in this manner. If it should be determined to build we would buy a lot with houses now standing on it, which would produce a revenue until such time as we should be ready to commence building. Of course the location must be central, but the present telephonic arrangements have in a measure annihilated distance, and rendered this of less importance than it formerly was. As I understand the present movement, it is simply to obtain information as to the sites that may become available."

"Have any particular locations been considered?"

"Yes, but for obvious reasons I am not at liberty to say where they are located. I can say, however, that absolutely nothing has been settled, and that the present committee, of which I am not a member, is perfectly free to make such recommendation as it may see fit."

"Will its decision be final?"

"By no means. The proposition as to this investment of the surplus fund must receive a three-fourths majority of all votes cast, and the same majority must be given to any particular site, supposing the first proposed to pass. Which is being done now is simply preliminary to presenting the scheme to the Board of Directors, from whom it goes to the members, who make the final decision."

EAST ST. LOUIS AND BELLEVILLE.

News and Gossip on the Other Side of the Bridge.

The case of Sarah Fellows of East St. Louis, the administratrix of the estate of the deceased Cyrus Fellows, her son, against the St. Louis Bridge and Tunnel Co., was on trial at the morning's session of court. The plaintiff states in her petition that her deceased son had been employed as switchman by the company and in November 1887 met with an accident on the road at East St. Louis which resulted in his death. The engine while passing over a switch at the railroad yards of the company jumped the track and Fellows was hurled from the platform of the engine, the wheels of which passed over his left leg, cutting it off entirely, and the unfortunate man died soon afterwards. The plaintiff is endeavoring to prove that the engine was not in good order at the time, and also that the tracks were not properly constructed, holding the company responsible for the repair of the same. The attorneys for the defense allege that railroad accidents cannot be avoided, and as is well-known throughout the country, are almost daily occurrences, and any one who takes the responsibility as a switchman for an engine does so at a risk of his life. The case will be on trial during the entire afternoon and an unusually large number of witnesses were at hand to give testimony this morning. The plaintiff sues for damages amounting to $5,000.

AMONG THE BROKERS.

A Dull Market—Stocks Sold and Prices Obtained To-Day.

Comparatively little was done in mining stocks this morning, but prices generally remained firm.

Frisco opened strong and steadily advanced, with many bidders and few callers. On call the first sale was one of 100 shares at 78¾, after which 300 shares brought 80, and 500 shares changed hands at 81¼. At 82½ the transfers aggregated 600 shares, with 200 sold at 83¾, this price being bid for more, trading closing at 85 asked, 83¾ bid. The explanation contained in the letter of Supt. Smith that the gold vein had not been perceived owing to the fact that a slip had cut it off just at the point where the 400-foot level was located silenced many of the criticisms formerly prevalent on the street. A shipment of ore will probably be mado to-day.

West Granite did not regain any of the ground lost yesterday. The first sales, aggregating 500 shares, was made at $1.05. Afterward 600 shares were disposed of at $1.07½, the market closing with a transfer of 600 shares at $1.05, the last offers being at $1.07½.

Favorable reports received from the Concencion sent that stock up, and a strong demand manifested itself; 800 shares sold at 20, and this price was bid for any part of 10,000 shares; 600 shares were subsequently disposed of at 21¼, trading closing with this figure bid.

Black Oak was strong, 700 shares selling at this figure, and 60 being bid for any part of 5,000 shares. Trading closed at 63¾ bid.

Reports from the Silver Age state that on the foot wall of the fourth level there are 2 feet of ore with 20 inches on the hanging wall. On the latter there is a one-inch streak of ruby assaying over 1,200 ounces to the ton. A carload of ore will be shipped to-morrow. The stock was $2.67½ bid, $2.85 asked.

Anderson was 27½ asked, and 8 was bid for Arizonia; Bremen was offered at 2½; Cariboo was 6 asked, 5½ bid; 600 Wire Patch sold at 37½; 1,000 I. X. L. sold at 9½, the stock closing at 9½ asked 9 bid; 1,000 Mary Foster brought 11½, and 500 sold at 11; Mountain Key was $1.67½ bid; 900 Pat Murphy sold at 16½; Montrose Placer was 35 bid; 100 Queen of the West brought 27½; 500 San Pedro sold at 7.

Routine business occupied the attention of the banks, with no unusual call from any particular line of business. Commercial paper was discounted at 6@8 per cent; New York exchange, 60 to 65 cents premium; clearances, $3,167,376; balances, $427,215.

REAL ESTATE.

Sales Made and Prices Obtained To-Day—Good Winter Market.

Several of the large property owners who are interested in having Twelfth street opened its full width from Washington avenue north to Franklin were very much elated yesterday over the decision of the Supreme Court affirming the report of the commissioners appointed for that purpose. They now propose to act in the matter forthwith by securing an appropriation from the Municipal Assembly so that the work of tearing down the houses that stand in the way may be commenced as soon as possible, their aim being to have the improvement fully completed by the 1st of June.

BUYING A FIFTY-YEAR LEASEHOLD.

John Byrne, Jr., & Co. report the sale of leasehold of property owned by the Convent of the Sacret Heart from the Byrne heirs to Julia Adler for $8,500. The leasehold has fifty years to run from July, 1889, the annual ground rental being $8.50 per foot. The premises covered by the lease are numbered 1220 and 1222 South Broadway, where there are a couple of old two-story buildings, which will shortly give way to improvements. Dr. Haydel of this firm also reports the sale of the six-room frame dwelling and 27½x121 feet of ground at No. 3323 Hickory street from the Little Sisters of the Poor to Tekla Hirschfeld for $765 cash. The lot adjoining on the east, owned by Mary McWieney, was also sold to Thekla Hirschfeld for $3,500.

GRANT WOODIN'S HOME SITE.

Joseph A. Duffy & Co. report the following sales: The six-room brick dwelling and 50x125 foot lot, numbered 4489 Margaretta avenue, for $3,300 from Stephen C. Grouse to Mrs. Thomas J. Merritt.

A lot of 25x150 feet, situate on the north line of St. Ferdinand avenue, about 300 feet east of Newstead, for $400 to Paul Grant Woodin, who is going to build there, also a 25x145 foot lot on the south side of Lucky street, between Vandeventer and Prairie avenues, for $500 to John Dietman for improvement. Both of these last mentioned lots were owned by Mr. Duffy.

NEW BUILDINGS FOR CHRISTY AVENUE.

Isaac S. Taylor's draughtsmen were set to work this morning making the detail drawings for a $40,000 building, which is to be constructed for P. Burns, the saddler, on Christy avenue between Seventh and Eighth, north side, next west of where A. B. Ghio is now putting up a five-story structure. P. J. Cunningham, the wholesale cloth merchant, expects shortly to commence building on his lot at the southeast corner of Eighth, where he contemplates erecting the largest improvement on the avenue.

SPECULATING IN LOW-PRICE LOTS.

M. A. Wolff & Co. report the sale of fifteen lots, aggregating 345x127 feet, from Charles McLaran to Mrs. Philip E. Green, who purchased the ground on speculation. It is in detached parcels that front on Grove, Pleasant and Peck streets, situate both north and south of Pennsylvania avenue. The consideration was $3,200, less than $10 a foot. There are no public improvements whatever in the locality and that fact accounts for the apparently low price.

ELEVENTH STREET IMPROVEMENTS.

James M. Carpenter has leased his three-story 25x121 foot building, No. 310 North Eleventh street, for five years at $2,400 per annum to the new art firm of Glover & Finkenauer. Mr. Carpenter is now having plans prepared to make improvements of a corresponding value on the lot adjoining on the north which he recently purchased at $400 a foot. He is also having a set of drawings made from which to erect a five story building on lots which will be numbered 411 and 413 North Eleventh, next adjoining the fine building now nearing completion at the southwest corner of Eleventh and St. Charles streets. This ground Carpenter & Co. are going to have improved for J. O. F. Delaney, who lately bought it for $400 a foot.

TRADING FOR CITY PROPERTY.

The Terry Bros., who have lately established themselves in business, report the sale of the two-story store and dwelling numbered 2200 Walnut street, for $9,600 from Mrs. George J. George to H. C. Boucher, who, in part payment, traded a 380 acre farm near Nashville, Ill., which figured in the transaction as of the value of $6,000. The city property has a frontage of 28½x115 feet, and is said to be renting for $65 a month.

A CITY BLOCK SOLD FOR $25,000.

The first large sale of the week, a $25,000 transaction, is reported by Charles H. Turner & Co. The property sold belonged to Gabriel S. Chouteau's estate. It consists of a block of unimproved ground, in the southern part of the city, bounded by Bernard street, Cardinal, Montrose and Scott avenues, with a main frontage of 357 feet. The price paid is equivalent to $35 a foot for each of the two fronts. Wm. H. Barnett was the purchaser. The premises are considered extra valuable on account of underlying fire-clay in close proximity to railroad tracks, which also render the land available for manufacturing or warehouse sites. This firm also reports the sale of 38-155 feet of ground on the north line of Lucas place, between Twentieth and Twenty-first streets, at $100 a foot to the M. A. Seed Dry Plate Co., who are now having plans made by Geo. W. Pipe to improve the site with a two-story business house.

A Dangerous Mine.

By Telegraph to the POST-DISPATCH.

SCRANTON, Pa., February 6.—The miners in the Whitebridge tunnel of the Delaware & Hudson Coal Co., at Carbondale, have been ordered out on account of the bursting of the pillars and the settling of the roof and the ground above it. One of the men employed in the extreme end of the work describes the cracking and roaring of the earth as being a hundred times louder than the most terrific thunder he ever heard. Great pieces of coal were forced from the sides of the pillars, rattled along the walls and tore away the wooden props which supported the roof. These missiles were sent with the swiftness of cannon balls. Coming from all directions it was foolhardy to attempt to enter the gangways leading to the under chambered excavations. The entire mountain lying west of the city, extending from the entrance of the tunnel to near the summit, is seriously disturbed by this settling of the excavated portions. The area actually undermined is fully two miles in length by about three-quarters of a mile in width.

The coal in the first vein has been removed, and the mining operations are confined to the second or bottom vein. The roof rock is close grained, and is what miners call "strong covering," the average thickness exceeding 50 feet. Overlying this rock is the surface covering which is not less than 40 feet deep and composed chiefly of shelly rock. This great body of earth and rock has been supported by the pillars of coal as the wooden props placed by the miners in the top vein have long since rotted away. Five hundred persons are thrown out of employment and the suspension of work will be most expensive to the company.

The Legislative Committee of the School Board will hold a meeting at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon. Long will give statistics in regard to the number of children between the ages of 6 and 14 years of age who do not attend the schools. Mr. Henning W. Prentiss, Principal of the Hodgen School, will submit the draft of a law for compulsory education.

Anthony will, on behalf of the delegation, present the claims of Senator Plumb for a Cabinet position.

ABOUT ENDED.

The Great Street Car Tie-Up in New York City Over.

By Telegraph to the POST-DISPATCH.

NEW YORK, February 6.—The loss in actual money to the striking men during the eight days' struggle is a little over $100,000 and to the companies about $250,000. To the many retail merchants doing business in the thoroughfares where the cars stopped running for several days the loss can not be estimated, though several of the larger firms who depend much on outside patronage assert that a falling off of 50 per cent was perceptible in their sales for the first three days.

At the headquarters of the men during the whole day a large number of gloomy men congregated and spoke in low tones, as though attending a funeral. James H. Magee, Master Workman of District Assembly 226, declared, with tears in his eyes, that although the men had made a good fight, circumstances had been against them and he would not attempt to keep the men from work an hour longer than necessary, now that it was evident that the companies had won the battle.

"The organization of the men has received a black eye," said a member of the Executive Board yesterday, "and it is a question if it survives this defeat. I pity the poor men."

THE TIE-UP OVER.

The great tie-up is over. Some cars are running on all the surface roads, and on nearly all of them the full number are running. The reserve police are still kept on duty and the patrol wagons are still in readiness, but the officers have been withdrawn from most of the cars. The strikers are pouring back to the depots in search of work. Generally speaking, the roads are glad to have their old hands if they come as individuals. The roads are unanimous in refusing to employ any man who comes as the representative of a Union organization. The Second avenue line are taking all the old men back. The Broadway line are receiving no applications from new men. On all the lines the men who are given work have to sign a paper to the effect that they are not and will not be subject to the order of any labor organization. The result will be that there will be a union car line in New York. This course was adopted by the Third avenue line on the last preceding strike, and they were able to run all during the strike just ended. The Knights of Labor appear to be fully conscious of the disastrous defeat they have sustained.

YESTERDAY'S TRAGEDY.

Charles Walker, the Belt Line conductor, who yesterday shot and killed James McGowan, a striker, who assaulted him, was arraigned in court to-day and held to await the result of the inquest. The President and another officer of the road were in court and offered to go on Walker's bond, stating that he was justified in the shooting.

IN BROOKLYN.

The strike on the Atlantic Avenue Brooklyn horse-car lines is weakening, and some of the strikers are returning to work. Cars are being run on all the lines under police protection.

A DOUBLE TRAGEDY.

A Chicago Reporter Kills His Wife and Commits Suicide.

CHICAGO, Ill., February 6.—The Police Department has been notified that a man named W. S. Bradley shot and killed his wife and then committed suicide at the Hotel Cortlandt, at the corner of Wabash avenue and Adams street. Both were shot through the head and died instantly. Walter S. Bradley was a member of an old and respected family in this city. W. H. Bradley, Clerk of the United States Court, and Francis Bradley of the firm of Baird & Bradley, dealers in real estate, were his uncles. Mrs. Bradley was a Miss Hathaway, and is a sister of Chas. H. Hathaway of the Corn Exchange National Bank. The couple took rooms at the Hotel Cortlandt about a week ago. Yesterday they quarreled and Mr. Bradley left the hotel. This morning he returned and requested an interview with his wife, awaiting her in the hotel parlor. When she came down the quarrel was renewed and the result was death to both of them. This is the third tragedy of the kind that has taken place here within a week.

Both were employed by a morning paper, the husband as a reporter and the wife as literary editor. Bradley was a "black sheep" in the family. He was at one time employed by the Pullman Palace Car Co., but was convicted of embezzlement and was condemned to a year's imprisonment in the State Penitentiary, from which he was released four or five months ago.

AN EXCITING SCENE.

Two Collisions on Seventh Street Occasioned by a Fire.

The Fire Department was called out this afternoon for an incipient fire in a dye-house located in the alley between Eighth and Ninth, Market and Walnut streets. The damage was trifling. In going to the fire the hose-carriage of No. 6, collided with car No. 2 of the Cass avenue line in front of the Real Estate Exchange on Seventh street. The passengers in the car were badly frightened, and one of the firemen on the rear of the hose cart narrowly escaped injury. The engine of Company No. 6, which came along immediately afterwards, struck a spring wagon of a contractor, which had been left standing in front of the Mechanics' Exchange and knocked it clear up on the sidewalk. The two collisions occasioned considerable excitement for a moment, but the engine and hose cart were not delayed but for a few seconds in consequence of the accidents.

He Is Caught By the Police of the Fourth District To-Day.

The police of the Fourth District have arrested Charles Koch on suspicions of being the man who broke into Joseph Dierhold's residence, 1701 Penrose street, stealing $25 from Mrs. Dierhold's dress pocket and then stabbing Mr. Dierhold when the latter attempted to capture him. Mr. Dierhold positively identified him as the burglar, and a warrant for burglary and larceny was issued against him to-day.

HE COULD NOT SAVE HER,

And So William Anderson Killed His Wife With a Base Ball Bat.

Wm. Anderson was placed on trial for his life in the Criminal Court to-day. He killed his wife, Adelia Anderson, with a base ball bat at No. 2510 North Broadway on August 9 last year. He pulled the bedclothes over her head while she was sleeping so he could not see her face and then struck her with the club.

Henry Fehr testified to Anderson's good character.

Anderson, in his own behalf, testified that he had begged and implored his wife not to go with other men, but she persisted in doing so. On the night of the killing she went out at 9 o'clock despite his propositions and after hunting for her for some time he finally found her with a lot of men in a coal yard at Second and Cedar streets. She wouldn't return with him and he got drunk in a neighboring saloon and went home alone. He went to sleep. She got home late in the morning, and when he awoke, drunk and crazed by her actions, he killed her, while she was lying asleep on the floor. Three weeks after his arrest her spirit entered his cell in the jail one night and awoke him.

His testimony before the Coroner, substantially the same as his statement to Sergt. Boyd, was read in rebuttal, and this closed the taking of evidence.

A recess was taken for dinner and after dinner the court read its instructions. They were for murder in the first degree and acquittal on the ground of insanity. The arguments are now being made. Thomas Estep is defending Anderson.

Parker—Crangle.

At 4 o'clock this afternoon Miss Hattie Crangle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Crangle, was married to Mr. Clarence Fairleigh Parker. Their house was elaborately decked out with plants and flowers. In the long salon parlor, midway between the windows was formed a bower of plants with a canopy of smilax overhead, beneath which the young couple stood. At the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. Dr. Niccolls of the Second Presbyterian Church, assisted by Rev. Dr. Felton of the Union M. E. Church, there was no one present except the families and very near friends. For the reception which followed from 5 to 7 o'clock, the house was thronged with guests, over 1,000 invitations having been issued.

The bride, a pretty, graceful young girl, wore an exquisite wedding robe of heavy white faille Francaise, made with a long princess train, the front draped with white Canton crepe draped in artistic folds and held at the waist beneath a girdle formed of pearl passementerie, over it was worn a short Empire jacket, cut slightly open at the throat, and held together with a grelot of pearls; the sleeves were puffed to the elbow, where they were met by long gloves, and in her hand she carried a large bunch of lilies of the valley. The wedding veil was of white silk Brussels net, worn without ornament, falling to the hem of her robe.

She had but one bridemaid, the maid of honor, Miss Lettie Parker, sister of the groom. She wore a simple gown, made after the Empire fashion, of white silk mull over white silk, the corsage drawn half high about her shoulders and girdled with a broad sash of the silk mull. A large bunch of Marechal Niel roses completed the girlish toilette. She was attended by the only groomsman, Mr. Ed. Orr of Charlestown, Ill. This couple were preceded into the parlor by the little twin sisters of the bride, Helena and Eloise, who were dressed alike in pale blue silk gauze made in the Greenaway style, and in the blue silk bags upon their arms they carried pink roses.

A table was set in the dining-room, from which refreshments were served throughout the evening. Mrs. Crangle wore a gown of golden-brown faille, draped with brown silk gauze, the pompadour corsage finished with folds of the gauze drawn from the shoulders to a point at the waist line, the V-shaped opening filled with lace; she carried a large bunch of pink roses.

Mrs. Bolcom of Michigan, aunt of the bride, wore black silk veiled with black chantilly lace. Mr. and Mrs. Parker will leave this evening for a visit of a fortnight to New Orleans. After their return they will be at home to their friends at the family residence, No. 3863 Bell avenue, Mondays in March, afternoons and evenings.

Camien-Willman.

The nuptials of Mr. Henry C. Camien and Miss Katie, daughter of Mr. John Willman, were celebrated last night at the home of the bride's parents, Rev. Dr. Jonas, a Lutheran minister, officiating. Among the presents received by the bride was an elegant clock from Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wezler; a silver ice pitcher from Mr. and Mrs. C. Damhorst; a silver ice pitcher from Mr. and Mrs. L. Schaefer; a silver sugar bowl from Charles Kneeb, Chicago; a silver cake stand from Doris Camien, a stand of wax flowers and globe from Mrs. Fred J. Koch, a magnificent lamp from J. Harris, a lamp from Mr. Willman, a clock from Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hecker, a French glass water set from Sophia L. Schiereck, a carving-knife and fork from Dr. J. F. Fries, a set of silver knives and forks from Mr. and Mrs. Otto Rasick, a set of silver knives and forks from John Wiser, an ivory toilet set from Mr. and Mrs. Peterson; an elegant fruit stand from John Heil and Clem Schulte, and a large number of articles of bijouterie and vertu.

A Murder Case.

Testimony was heard before Judge Noonan to-day in the preliminary examination of Henry Lange, charged with murder in the second degree. The court took the case under advisement until February 16. Lange killed Patrick J. McDermott on October 30, at Mrs. Sutbeck's boarding-house in the northern part of the city. Lange, who is a brother-in-law of Mrs. Sutbeck, called there for his boy, and when told he was not in the house, insisted he was and slapped the woman's face. McDermott interfered and was shot.

AN EXCITING CONFLICT.

THE BOMBARDMENT OF ST. MARC BY GEN. LEGITIME'S WAR SHIPS.

Port-de-Paix Also Shelled by the Naval Forces—The Flag on the American Consulate the Target for the Ships' Guns—Legitime's Land Forces Slaughtered by Hippolyte's Soldiers.

By Telegraph to the POST-DISPATCH.

NEW YORK, February 6.—News of the most exciting conflict yet waged in the Haytien rebellion came to this port yesterday by the steamer Harold, Capt. James Hutton, which arrived from the blockaded northern ports of St. Marc and Port-de-Paix. Accounts of battles in Hayti have all along been more or less colored by partisan feeling, but from the information gleaned yesterday from the officers and crew of the Harold there seems no room to doubt that Legitime's entire naval force attacked on January 26 the fortress of St. Marc commanded by Gen. Abebo, and after a bombardment of five hours, during which the American flag floating over the Consul's house served as the target of all the guns of all the fleet, withdrew leaving a military force on hand to the tender mercies of Hippolyte's soldiers. Meantime the sky was ablaze the same evening with the conflagration of the neighboring town which had been captured and burned by Legitime's forces. The soldiers who had been landed at St. Marc were all among them being several of Legitime's most important generals. The Harold had a most thrilling experience, having lain during the bombardment between guns of the attacking fleet and those of the batteries on shore, the shells shrieking over her mastheads and solid shot richocheting within a few feet of her hull. The Harold left New York ostensibly for Port-de-Paix January 8 with a cargo of general provisions and guns. She was in charge of Capt. James Hutton and Supercargo Ryder. That she intended to run the blockade was evident from her clearance papers, Port-de-Paix being one of the blockaded ports, but her eventual destination was not generally known.

"When we got close to the Island of Hayti, January 16," one of the crew said yesterday, "the Captain told us we were not going to Port-de-Paix as yet. The lights were all put out and we run at night without them. On the morning of January 17 we entered the harbor of St. Marc, the first steamship in this port for four months, and our provisions were very quickly landed and sold at remarkably high prices. On Sunday, January 20, Capt. Hutton set us to work on shore mounting guns, some of which we brought down. All the officers, one seaman and the carpenter, John August Janssen, worked all night. On Monday morning the clerical with which they were piecing in position the biggest and best gun that Hippolyte had, a gun weighing 164,421 pounds, fell and the carpenter was badly hurt and was taken to the house of one of the Generals and thence aboard the steamer. At 11 a. m., January 26, five men-of-war, the Grand Riviere, Defense, Toussaint L'Ouverture, Dessalines and Marcel, appeared off port.

ALMOST IMMEDIATELY THEY BEGAN FIRING,

starting with three single shots. The Dessalines threw shells which went right over our heads and plunged down in the town of St. Marc inside the port, in their explosion evidently throwing everybody into a dreadful fright, if not doing serious injury. We saw the roofs of seven or eight houses blown off and almost every shot seemed to take effect, though the ships were fully two miles and a half from shore. On the part of the Hippolyte forces the fighting was so far merely perfunctory, their guns being absolutely useless and carrying not more than half way to the ships. An Italian bark lay near us, the only other vessel in the harbor, and our two vessels together covered one of the shore batteries so that the Legitimists had to fire over our heads or between us through a narrow space. This made our position a very risky one and we were badly frightened. The solid shot frequently dropped near us, and the shells, one of which seemed just to clear our mainmast, could be distinctly seen and heard.

"A great many of the shells were dropped behind the American Consul's house, and after one explosion we saw people running towards the house, as if some had been killed. The solid shot struck mostly in front of the house. Meanwhile we occupied ourselves in dodging and dropping on deck when anything like a shell came near us. The Captain was very badly frightened and at 4 o'clock decided to pull up anchor, go out and give himself up to the Legitimists rather than stay where he was and be shot at. At this point a General came out from shore and said that all damage to our vessel would be made good. He offered $6,000 as indemnity. As he and the Captain were considering the matter and got away. They had landed six boat loads of soldiers early in the day and these were attacked at once by troops from St. Marc. We heard that every one of them was killed. Although the military men of Hippolyte are very spirited and brave their guns could not carry to the attacking fleet, one big one we had assisted in mounting being thrown over on its back at the first fire. That evening when we got away from the town in flames."

The damage to the town of St. Marc was considerable, but it was thought that if a determined attack by land had been made as once it could have been captured. Two men were killed in the first fire and six wounded, according to report given to the Harold by those who had been on board.

The Harold immediately proceeded to Port-de-Paix, slipping by the men-of-war in the dark. Then she completed her cargo of logwood and coffee and sailed for New York January 29. The carpenter, Janssen, who was injured while at work for Hippolyte, was barely able to walk about yesterday. He will probably receive some compensation from the Hippolyte Government in consideration of his services and injury on its account.

Collector Magone's Report.

WASHINGTON, D. C., February 6.—The Collector of Customs at New York has reported to the Treasury Department that he has done all in his power to aid Gen. Preston, the Haytien Minister, in preventing the departure from that fort of vessels laden with arms and ammunition for the Haytien insurgents.

SICK OF THE SPREAD EAGLE.

One Citizen Who Asks for Less of This Samoan Windstorm.

In a talk with Capt. J. C. Kennett, late of the United States Navy, last evening, apropos of some recent screeches about the Samoa matter, he said: "A word of protest is in order against the pernicious spread-eagleism that is still rampant in the land and continues right in the teeth of cold facts to pipe out a lot of drivel something like this: 'We have nothing to fear, we can build and equip a splendid navy when we really need one in something less than no time; the resources of our great country the genius of our people will promptly meet any emergency, etc. As for an army, pshaw, a million or so of men will spring to arms at the first bugle blast, and in less than thirty days we could easily face the world and annihilate everything and everybody; yow, wow, let us at 'em.' That's real North American Yankee Doodle, go on with the music.

"Well, it's a trifle chilly this evening, but we will imagine its the Fourth of July and give them some more. How the nations of Europe must thank God that the broad ocean rolls between them and this mighty host of American tigers crouched, as it were, for the fatal leap, and ready to chaw 'em up, woovoo yarum yarum. It's true the degenerate foreigners have lots of ironclads and big rifled guns and a few million of real trained soldiers, and we have not; but then they have not the wonderful resources and genius aforesaid, and the scream of the mighty bird of freedom does not enthuse them worth a cent. They are not like us, you know, they are only Rooshans and Prooshans and frog-eating Frenchmen and Maccaronis and low-down Britishers, which last we have jammed the stuffing out of on several previous occasions and can do it again, 'by gad, sir,' Let up, did you say? Well, while the band plays the 'Star-Spangled Banner' we will take a rest. This sort of stuff is unworthy of further notice anyhow. Americans are very powerful, but the amount of blowing that has been done in some quarters is enough to make sensible citizens of America very tired indeed."

THE WINDOW-GLASS TRUST.

Its Continuance Impossible on Account of Numerous Conflicting Interests.

PITTSBURG, Pa., February 6.—The window-glass trust has fallen through. One of the manufacturers said to-day that the discussion on the subject, just before the Washington meeting, developed the fact that it was an impossibility. The importers of Belgian window-glass will not join any association of the kind proposed. With the present tariff it could not succeed without them. One-half the window-glass now used in this country is imported from Belgium. It can be brought in here, the tariff paid and sold just as cheap as American glass. Another serious objection is that interests of the Eastern and Western window-glass manufacturers are conflicting that it would be almost an impossibility to get them to agree on any trust or syndicate scheme.

Police Board Meeting.

The regular meeting of the Police Board was held yesterday afternoon. The charges against Detective Tucker were postponed on account of the man's illness. The resignation of John T. Mooney of the Fifth District was accepted. Emergency Special Wm. F. Callahan was fined $10 for failing to walk his beat. The cases of Francis McGarry, Frank H. Schliefstein and James Brady were disposed of. Detective Moberly reported that he had made every effort to suppress gambling and had in several instances been successful.

Chief Huebler was instructed to enforce the law in regard to putting up signs, distributing hand-bills and painting signs on sidewalks.

Julius Blumer's Suicide.

Julius Blumer, 53 years of age, ended his life with a revolver shortly after 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon at his home, 1116 South Thirteenth street. The deed was done with an old-fashioned 44-caliber Colt's revolver, which blew away half his head and scattered his brains about the room. When the shot was heard some of his family rushed to the room and found him seated in a chair before the looking-glass where he had evidently placed himself so as to direct the aim of the weapon. It is supposed that he killed himself because he was out of work, being lately discharged from the formanship of Claes & Lehnbeuter's show case factory. He leaves a wife and eight children.

The Hansen Inquest.

The inquest over the body of Ida Hansen, who was shot by her husband, Henry Hansen, on Monday, at 405 South Second street, was held yesterday afternoon. The Coroner rendered a verdict holding Hansen responsible for the death of the woman. The remains were buried to-day.

THE SAMOAN TROUBLE.

SECRETARY BAYARD ACCEPTS BISMARCK'S PROPOSITION FOR A CONFERENCE.

The President to Send the Correspondence in the Case to Congress—Probable Action of the British Government—The Count Bismarck Interview—An Officer of the Nipsic Defends Klein.

By Telegraph to the POST-DISPATCH.

WASHINGTON, D. C., February 6.—Secretary Bayard has accepted Germany's proposition for a conference to be held at Berlin to renew consideration of the Samoan question. In the course of two weeks and, probably in a day or two, the President will send to Congress a message inclosing the proposition of the Imperial Government, submitted by Count Von Arco Valley, and the reply of Mr. Bayard. The suggestion that the renewal of the conference be at Berlin was not regarded as unreasonable, and in some respects it suits the condition of affairs. One conference was held here and in that instance the German and English governments listened to and accepted Mr. Bayard's request that the treaty powers meet here. It is regarded as only fair that in this instance the United States should consult the convenience of Germany, and another reason is that Great Britain will desire to be represented. There is not now a British Minister at this capital and there may not be for several months. It is just possible that Lord Salisbury may nurse his resentment at the dismissal of Lord Sackville so long as to neglect to fill the place of that person in time to allow his successor to sit in the conference here. There would be no difficulty about sending a special representative to Berlin in case it was decided not to devolve upon the British Minister at that Capital the additional duties of a confrere on the Samoan question.

SECRETARY BAYARD'S CONFIDENCE.

As has already been stated in these dispatches Secretary Bayard is confident that the renewal of the conference will be only the beginning of a permanent settlement of a dispute that he insisted would be settled without resort to violence, and that must be settled by negotiation eventually, whether there is a collision or not. The American proposition made two years ago, was understood, but it evidently did not suit the Germans to accept it. There has been an apparent avoidance of the proposition since in that has been done by the Germans in Samoa. That the Chancellor has become convinced of the general condemnation here over the German bold and straightforwardness, is plain. His anticipation in his last telegram, conveying news of the withdrawal of Consul Knapp's order of occupation and martial law, on the demand of the United States is interpreted as being a desire and willingness for a government for Samoa in which the treaty powers will have an equal voice, yet respect the independence of the natives.

THE COUNT BISMARCK INTERVIEWED.

The attention of the Secretary of State has been directed to the expressions of some views on the Samoan question telegraphed from Baden as having been obtained from Count Herbert Bismarck, the son of the Chancellor, and he has been pressed to give his opinion of the views of the younger man. He says that Mr. Bayard should be expected to reply to anything that Count Bismarck sees fit to say on any subject does not appear. The Samoan correspondence with Germany is being conducted by Prince Bismarck through the German Minister at this Capital, and for that reason Mr. Bayard confines himself to that channel of intercourse and expression. He considers the general tone of the remarks attributed to Count Herbert Bismarck as friendly and in general agreement with that employed by his father in his communications on the subject.

As the resumption at Berlin of the amicable conference suspended at Washington on July 26, 1887, in accordance with the proposal of Prince Bismarck, is acceptable to this Government, and there seems to be little ground to doubt that a peaceable settlement of all questions of native rights in Samoa, as well as the rights of the three treaty powers, will be obtained, further comment, except approval of the good temper shown by Count Bismarck in relation to the United States, and the resolution to dispose of the questions involved in the atmosphere of diplomatic settlement, will not be indulged in by Mr. Bayard, and he will show his respect for the Congress by making his communication to that body first, and through the Congress reach the public.

THE MOHICAN.

The Mohican is not yet under way to join Rear Admiral Kimberly's fleet at the Samoan Islands, but she is expected to leave San Francisco in a day or two. She will first go to Panama, where her permanent crew will be relieved by a fresh detail of officers and men to be sent down from New York by one of the Pacific Mail Co.'s steamers to Aspinwall and thence by rail to Panama. She will carry eighteen or twenty officers and about two hundred seamen and marines. Four of her present officers, including her commander, Capt. J. B. Coghlan, Lieut. Commander F. W. Crocker, Lieut. E. H. Gait and Paymaster Stephen Ryan, having been recently ordered to the Mohican will remain on board for this cruise. The detail for the remainder has not yet been made out. Telegraphic notice of the arrival of the Trenton and Vandalia at Samoa is expected in about a week. When the Mohican joins Admiral Kimberly he will have a much stronger fleet at the islands than that of Germany, and it will afterward be reinforced by the addition of the Monongahela, which will follow the Mohican out from San Francisco as a supply ship, carrying out coal and other necessities for the fleet.

Correspondent Klein Vindicated.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., February 6.—A Samoa correspondent of the Critic, who is an officer of the Nipsic, after describing the battle of December 18, between the Germans and Mataafa's soldiers, says: "This is an exact and truthful statement of the battle as related to me by one of the natives who participated in it, all, and also by Mr. Klein, the New York WORLD and POST-DISPATCH correspondent, who was there and did his best to prevent bloodshed, notwithstanding the fact that all his sympathies are with the rightful claimant to the throne. Though the killing of these poor Germans at Saloon may be condmned by the German press, they met exactly the fate they merited for their brazen attempt to assist a usurper whom they hope to use for their own ends to the disadvantage of the man they can place him firmly in a seat to which they and all the world well know he is not entitled.

"The German Consul here has said in public that the natives fired first, and that they were instigated to the act by an American (Mr. Klein), but the statement is made out of whole cloth for the purpose of covering up his own imbecility or getting aid and sympathy from a quarter whence Germany must have both in order to accomplish her aim. A man who is fool enough to imagine that 100 German sailors can whip 4,000 determined Samoans is also quite capable of coining a malicious falsehood to cover up his ridiculous want of judgment, or curry aid and favor from a people to whose good opinion and sympathy neither his conduct nor his cause is justly entitled."

The Riverside Penitentiary Investigation.

PITTSBURG, Pa., February 6.—The Riverside Penitentiary investigation continues until an early hour this morning, when an adjournment was taken until Thursday afternoon.

Pending the result of the investigation, Dr. Marharnake, the prison physician and steward, has been suspended by Warden Wright. The testimony last night was to the effect that prisoners had paid Marahrarnake for liquors, had loaned him money, some of which had not been paid back, and that several of the prisoners had been cruelly treated while in the hospital.

Death of Mayor Leitch.

By Telegraph to the POST-DISPATCH.

MATTOON, Ill., February 6.—Hon. S. M. Leitch, Mayor of Charleston and ex-States' Attorney of Coles County, died at his home in Charleston this morning of inflammatory rheumatism, after a short illness. He was one of the leading young Republicans of this district and a man highly esteemed by all. His services as Prosecuting-Attorney of Coles County for several terms made him a terror to evil-doers, and his services in public office were highly satisfactory.

Dr. S. H. Sonnenschein delivered a lecture before the Y. M. H. A. last night at their rooms in Temple Israel. The subject, The "Y. M. H. A. Problem," was handled in the doctor's usual manner. Music and refreshments followed and a pleasant evening was enjoyed by all.

ANOTHER DAY'S RECORD OF HELP FOR PARNELL.

His Friends Continue to Show Their Appreciation of His Good Work With Their Quarters—The Number of Subscribers Is Now Over 5,000—The Names of Those Who Subscribe To-Day.

THE Parnell trial still drags its slow length along, but some progress is being made, as was seen by the announcement yesterday that the Irish portion of the Times' case had been finished by the Attorney-General and work on the American part begun. This trial promises to be one of the longest, most expensive, that has ever taken place, and the cause of the defender of Ireland's cause will need all the help that it can get, both at home and abroad. The Irishmen still left in their native land are so ground down by landlordism that the help they give means deprivation of the necessities and comforts of life, and their more fortunate brothers, who have come to a land where freedom reigns, should bear this in mind and as far as possible help ease the burden on the shoulders of the old people, their fathers and mothers, still struggling for the righteous cause in the land of the shamrock.

Mr. Parnell has made a gallant fight for the Irish and Home Rule, and in this trying hour, when he is needing every effort to convict his slanderers, his friends and the friends and sons of old Ireland should stand by him and help him out. A quarter is not much, and every quarter that comes from America means not only money-help but gives moral encouragement to fight the good cause, which means removing the chains from a down-trodden and abused land and people.

Interest in the POST-DISPATCH Parnell fund is great and words of encouragement come in from all sides. The number of subscribers is now over five thousand and the steady increase keeps on from day to day.

The list of subscribers are here given. The parenthetical numbers indicate the number of contributions credited on the lists to families or individual subscribers.

SOMETHING of interest for the people in every SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH.

THE IRISH QUESTION.

MR. LABOUCHERE MAKES A SUGGESTION TO THE UNITED STATES SENATE.

As Long as the Irish Representatives Are Treated as Felons There Should Be No American Minister at the Court of St. James—The Shah of Persia—Gossip.

Special Cablegram to the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, February 6.—When King Bomba of Naples imprisoned those who demanded that his rule should be in accordance with justice, and treated as felons men whom the Italians regarded as honorable statesmen, Mr. Gladstone denounced him and the British Government withdrew their diplomatic representative from Naples. I would suggest that the United States Senate follow our example and decline to confirm the appointment of any Minister to this country so long as the Irish representatives are treated as felons. The Americans may rest satisfied that every Liberal in this country would approve of their action. Lord Salisbury and the Government adherents have always shown themselves to be bitter enemies of America. During the Sackville incident Lord Salisbury went out of his way to explain that President Cleveland lost his election because he had packed off a lord, bag and baggage, out of the country for having interfered with the election and for having subsequently explained to a reporter that the American Secretary of State was not to be believed. He has deferred the appointing of the new Minister to Washington as a species of punishment for the Americans. The dislike of Lord Salisbury to America is no new thing. He was one of the Vice-Presidents of the Southern Independence Association, the object of which was the promotion of the cause of the rebellion in America.

THE SHAH OF PERSIA.

The approaching visit of the Shah of Persia to England is causing much embarrassment to the court officially. He comes to all the European Courts as a guest and expects to be received with at least the same honors which were accorded to him in 1873. The Czar is preparing to give Nasir-Ed-Din, a magnificent reception both at Moscow and at St. Petersburg, and it is already arranged that the greatest review of troops which has ever been held in Russia should take place during his stay. What is to be done with His Majesty in England has not yet been settled, but the Queen has decided not to give him quarters at Buckingham Palace again, having decided that there is to be no repetition of the Oriental orgies which took place there in 1873, when every room which had been occupied by the Persians had to be entirely repainted, redecorated and refurnished in consequence of their eccentricities. It is proposed to engage a residence for the Shah, whose visit it is earnestly hoped will not exceed a week.

A SEVERE PUNISHMENT.

I hear that the Queen has issued orders that any noblemen or gentlemen who may be considered to have misconducted themselves, but whose offenses have not been such as to justify their exclusion from court, are to be punished by not being invited to state balls and state concerts.

WILKIE COLLINS.

"Mr. Wilkie Collins," so I read in a paper, "is plodding along on his memoirs, which promise to make a volume rich in interest." This piece of news will considerably surprise Mr. Collins, who has not written a single line of his memoirs, nor has he any intention of undertaking such work. Mr. Collins has nearly finished his new novel entitled "The Lord Harry."

GLADSTONE IN ITALY.

Mr. Gladstone, who leaves Naples this week for Genoa, is to pay a visit to Lord Acton at Cannes on his way home. He will probably arrive in England about Monday week.

THE AUSTRIAN TRAGEDY.

The Daily News prints the following dispatch from Munich and vouches for its accuracy:

On the afternoon of Tuesday of last week, Baroness S——, a beautiful young girl of lovely disposition arrived at Meyerling and took up quarters at the game keeper's house not far from the Emperor's villa. No one knew her there except the head game keeper and his wife. At midnight when the Crown Prince had bidden his guests good night, he went to see her and had been with her about an hour when one of the under foresters already equipped for the morning's chase, went to the house to ask the head gamekeeper for detailed instructions. He knocked loudly at the door whereupon a window opened and a man jumped out and ran away. The forester aimed and fired. The fugitive fell, and when the forester walked up to him he recognized the Crown Prince who had fainted. The shot had gone into the shoulder. The forester called for help, and with another man carried him into the head game-keeper's house. Noticing that the Prince was badly wounded, the forester went into the woods and shot himself. The body has been duly identified, and all the servants in the palace are familiar with the case. The Baroness, thinking the Crown Prince to be dead, turned to her traveling-bag, took something out of it, and before she had been noticed fell dead on the floor. The Crown Prince came to, was taken by his own orders to the villa, where his valet began to ask anxious questions. The Crown Prince said, impatiently:

"I have fallen, my nose is bleeding, go away, I wish to be alone."

The valet went out and the Crown Prince locked the door and then suicided before his mirror. The Baroness was buried on Thursday at Heiligen Krenzina Convent, where all her family are interred.

SKIN, SCALP and BLOOD

Diseases Cured by Cuticura Remedies When Hot Springs, Doctors and All Other Medicines Fail.

Having been a sufferer for two years and a half from a disease caused by a bruise on the leg, and having been cured by the CUTICURA REMEDIES when all other methods and remedies failed, I deem it my duty to recommend them. I visited Hot Springs to no avail, and tried several doctors without success, and at last our principal druggist, Mr. John P. Finley (to whom I shall ever feel grateful), spoke to me about CUTICURA, and I consented to give them a trial with the result that I am perfectly cured. There is now no sore about me. I think I can show the largest surface where my suffering sprang from of any one in the State. The CUTICURA REMEDIES are the best blood and skin cures manufactured. I refer to druggist John P. Finley and Dr. Cross Mountenay, both of this place, and to Dr. Smith of Lake Lee, Miss.

ALEXANDER BEACH, Greenville, Miss.

Mr. Beach used the CUTICURA REMEDIES, at our request, with results as above stated.

SCROFULA 7 YEARS CURED.

I have been troubled with scrofula seven years, which first started on the top of my head, giving me infinite trouble, with constant itching, casting off of dry scales and a watery liquid exuded from under the scales. I treated it for seven years unsuccessfully, and was unable to check it until I found your CUTICURA REMEDIES. One box CUTICURA, one cake CUTICURA SOAP and one bottle CUTICURA RESOLVENT completely cured me, my skin becoming perfectly clear and smooth.

AMUSEMENTS TO-NIGHT.

OLYMPIC—The Bostonians.
GRAND—"Crystal Slipper."
PEOPLE'S—"Storm Beaten."
POPE'S—"Alone in London."
STANDARD—Leavitt's European Novelties.

The indications for twenty-four hours, commencing at 3 p.m. to-day, for Missouri are: Fair weather; warmer; variable winds; generally southerly.

IT would be well to wait until after the coming municipal election before increasing municipal salaries.

THE strongest evidence against the character of a saloon-keeper is the unwillingness of his friends to indorse him publicly.

NOW THAT BISMARCK has pulled in his guns and the war feeling is subsiding Senator FRYE can sympathize with a Fourth of July orator whose platform has suddenly collapsed.

THE Oklahoma bill has been referred to the Committee on Territories in the Senate. This is taken as an opening victory for the measure, as its opponents wanted it referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

KANSAS CITY suggests a kind of poll-tax on voters that is unlike any other yet enacted. A tax of $2.50 on each voter, collectible from those only who fail to vote, would work well in St. Louis. A $5 tax would work still better.

THE disposition on the part of the local leaders of the Democratic party to refer all questions of party policy and party nominations to the voters is an excellent sign of practical reform. Actions hereafter, however, will speak louder than words with regard to the true attitude of the bosses.

THE grip of New York on the cabinet is so strong that a cabinet place must be made for it if no ready-made place can be found. The talk of dignifying the Agricultural Bureau into a department and giving the portfolio to WARNER MILLER is becoming serious. There is nothing like being a pivotal State.

IF the assumption of an alias is sufficient to enable the keeper of a disreputable dive to continue his demoralizing business the law had better be repealed. The necessity of assuming aliases and of making false sales will not stand in the way of any of the men who are profiting by the degradation of others.

JOHN WANAMAKER has bought for $80,000 the Frelinghuysen house in Washington, now occupied by Secretary WHITNEY. From this it is to be inferred that a white man who represents a collection of $400,000 for the campaign fund can feel much surer of a cabinet position than a colored leader who represents nothing but the million or so of brunette Republicans whose votes elected Harrison.

A BILL has been introduced into the State Legislature to compel all the cities in the State to construct, own and operate all the railroad tracks, gas plants and electric light plants used in such cities, or do without them. Such is the seeming object of a bill forbidding municipal assemblies to grant franchises for the use of the streets to private corporations. But as such a law would not cancel existing franchises, it would merely secure to the holders thereof very valuable monopolies.

THE "respectable" men whose influence furnishes an excuse for delaying the enforcement of the law against divekeepers should be made known to the community. The only kind of backing which should be considered in a question of this kind is public backing. To insist on the secrecy of it is a confession of the disreputable character of the men in whose favor the influence is exerted. The Collector should regard confidential communications on this subject as anonymous letters, unworthy of notice.

THE pragmatic sanction of the Emperor CHARLES VI. cost that ruler years of unrest, Europe a tremendous amount of diplomatic wrangling, and finally resulted in the war of the Austrian succession. There seems to be danger that it will again be the occasion of serious complications. Crown Prince RUDOLF left no male heir and it appeared to be accepted that Archduke FRANCIS, the nephew of the present Emperor, would succeed to the throne, but there is a report of a movement in favor of little Archduchess ELIZABETH among the Hungarians, who first rallied to the support of MARIA THERESA. Rumors of discontent are arising elsewhere also, and there is a chance for trouble over the question. No immediate decision, however, being necessary, an amicable settlement may be reached.

THE bill introduced in the State Legislature providing for the establishment of a State weather service and carrying an appropriation for its maintenance is an important measure and should be adopted in proper form. The value of an efficient weather bureau to the agricultural and shipping interests of the State can scarcely be estimated. What similar bureaus have done for other States and what has been accomplished at slight cost by the volunteer service organized by Prof. NIPHER was demonstrated in an article on the subject in the POST-DISPATCH of last Monday. The National Signal Service cannot cover the field for each State and leaves a wide opening for special State work in this direction. The present volunteer service should be utilized to form the basis of a regular State service adequately supplied by the State government.

All Eyes on Gov. Eagle.

From the Springfield (Mass.) Republican.

Gov. Eagle has now an opportunity to show his mettle. It was after he had served through the war and had returned to his farm that he resolved to gain an education. He went to Mississippi College when about 40 years of age, and has since made rapid strides in the public service. His election as Governor was one of those romances which our institutions make possible, and if he can now turn the forces of a naturally strong character to the vindication of his State, the farmer Governor of Arkansas will not be forgotten in history.

Mrs. Cleveland Danced.

From the Chicago News.

It is announced with all proper gravity that Mrs. Cleveland danced the other night for the first time since she went to Washington to be the mistress of the White House. But, mark you, the dance she took part in was none of your sinful round dances. It was a quadrille, and the observant spectators joyously testify that she danced it very well.

Perhaps after all she did it merely out of kindness, so as to give Mrs. Harrison a precedent.

S. S. O. S. S.—1. The custom of celebrating St. Valentine's Day by sentimental or comic love messages, often in rhyme and adorned with ornamental or grotesque devices, is a very ancient one. Some tell us that on this day the birds select their mates, others trace the custom to the Roman Lupercalia, February 15, when similar practices were observed. Traces of the custom have been detected among the observances of the northern Pagans of ancient Europe. Hence it is probable the tradition that ascribes its origin to a commemoration of the loving and charitable disposition of St. Valentine is a comparatively late invention. 2. Christopher Columbus had no middle name. 3. The highest price cigars known in this city are Soberanos, which are sold at wholesale at $1,065 per 1,000.

INVESTIGATING SOLONS.

INSURANCE COMMISSIONER CARR MEETS ANOTHER SMELLING COMMITTEE.

State Senators and Representatives Studying the Insurance Business—Committeeman Jewett Talks About Senator Smith's Report—An Incomprehensible Error—Organization This Morning and Testimony To-Morrow—An Informal Session.

A LEGISLATIVE committee to investigate the Insurance Department arrived in the city this morning and set up headquarters at the Laclede Hotel. The committee is composed of Senators F. L. Merchand of Lewis County and S. Peery of Trenton, and Representatives William L. Jewett of Shelbina, Ed O'Day of Springfield and James Moore. The last named is sick and could not come with the committee. Senator Merchand is Chairman of the Senate Committee on Insurance and Senator Peery is a member of that committee. Representatives Jewett and O'Day are members of the House Committee on Insurance, the former being Chairman.

Soon after their arrival at the Laclede the members having breakfasted met and organized by electing chairman. Charles Pollock accompanies the committee as clerk.

After the organization the committee went to the office of the American Central Insurance Co. and met the Secretary of the company, Geo. T. Cram, the President, being out of the city. At about 11 o'clock they arrived at the office of the Commissioner of Insurance, Alfred Carr, where they had a short conference with Mr. Carr and his legal adviser, Chris Ellerbe.

The committee was appointed under a joint resolution adopted by the General Assembly after the submission of a report made by Senator M. R. Smith and Representatives E. A. Seay and L. G. Kelly, who were appointed by Gov. Morehouse to investigate the Auditor's and Treasurer's offices. This committee extended its investigation to the Insurance Department and in its report criticises every feature of it adversely. This report called the Insurance Department

A LITTLE KINGDOM.

It also contained the following remarkable paragraph, which has been laughed over by insurance people wherever the report has gone:

"The total resources of the insurance companies, fire, life and accident, operating in this State in 1887 was $761,062,236. The aggregate amount of premiums of all kinds of companies is $197,657,200. This much money was paid in the year 1887 by the people of the State to insurance companies. The amount paid back to the policy-holders by accident and fire companies for the same year was $72,390,707 and to policy-holders by life and mutual assessment companies, excepting benevolent and aid societies, was $62,515,343. There was retained by the companies of all kinds, excepting benevolent societies, $62,751,150. The total income of the companies of all kinds operating in Missouri, for the past year, was $234,037,494. This income is the aggregate of premiums received and interest on bonds and stocks owned by the companies. A balance of $62,751,150 was left in the vaults of the companies after they had paid all losses, except running and contingent expenses."

The humor of the above lies in its misstatements.

of the present committee said this morning: "Our committee was appointed because it was believed that the former committee's report was unfair and incorrect. We are to investigate the truth of the charges made in their report and to report by bill, recommendation or otherwise. There are statements in the report of that can hardly be true, such as the statement as to the aggregate amount of premiums received by insurance companies in Missouri, which is stated as $197,657,200. That is, I understand, the receipts of all the companies doing business in this State on their business in all the States of the Union, Missouri only contributing $7,000,000 to it. The other figures regarding the companies' business are, it seems to me, proportionately inaccurate."

"Will the committee recommend any new legislation?"

"I do not know. We cannot tell. If there is any need for new legislation we will certainly make some recommendation. We had a talk this morning with the Secretary of the American Central Insurance Co. and want to talk to all the Missouri companies."

RETALIATION SUGGESTED.

"Does the American Central make any complaint against the department?"

"No complaint, but the Secretary suggested the enforcement of the retaliatory law. There is a law on the statute book, which provides that where any State shall tax Missouri insurance companies doing business in other States at a greater rate than is charged in Missouri, that there shall be collected from companies from such State doing business in Missouri taxes at the rate their States charge. This law is on the statute books of several States, and is enforced by them. I don't know why it has not been enforced in Missouri."

THE COMMITTEE DID NOT UNDERTAKE

to do any work to-day, but will meet to-morrow morning at 9 o'clock at the Insurance Department and begin the taking of testimony. Mr. Carr and Mr. Ellerbe showed them the department's report and explained how the reports were made. They also showed them the reports of companies made to the Commissioner. Mr. Ellerbe explained at length the process of weeding out that was gone through with each one of the companies' reports to get at the true assets.

Senator Peery sunk his head into his coat collar and read a company report diligently for a quarter of an hour. He seemed to grow more puzzled as he proceeded and finally gave it up with the inquiry: "How many of these reports would a feller have to read to learn all about the insurance business?"

That brought the session to a laughing close.

They were arrested late in the evening in a saloon on Broadway. Judge Anderson levied fines of $100 each. Conley's father interceded in his behalf and the Judge promised to let him off on the payment of $25 and costs. THE BOSTONIANS IN "DOROTHY."

Another Bright Success at the Olympic—Amusement Notes.

The Bostonians scored another triumph fully as pronounced as on Monday evening at the Olympic last evening.

The opera was Cellier's "Dorothy," which was bright and melodious as to music and entertaining and amusing as to action. The performance was altogether admirable. It brought out not only the individual strength of the company, but in a marked degree the excellence of the ensemble and the fine harmony of the forces. The cast, chorus and orchestra were on a par, the chorus showing splendid volume, precision and spirit in its work.

There was a dash about the entire performance which made it captivating while nearly every member of the cast made a distinct personal success. Juliette Corden invested Dorothy with a quiet girlish charm and her sweet clear voice was heard to advantage. Jessie Bartlett Davis made a dashing and attractive Lydia and sang charmingly. Edwin Hoff's sweet tenor and artistic methods made a success of Goeffery Wildes and W. H. MacDonald was capital as Harry Sherwood. H. C. Barnabee fairly rolllicked through the comedy part of Lurcher, keeping the audience roaring at his oddities and he was cleverly supported in the fun by Josephine Bartlett as Mrs. Privett. Eugene Cowles revealed a strong basso of unusually fine quality as Squire Bantam and credit must be given for satisfactory work to Carlotta Maconda, Florence Reade, J. A. Montgomery and Fred Dixon in minor roles.

To-night "Pygmalion and Galatea" will be repeated and to-morrow evening "Fatinitza," with Jessie Bartlett Davis in the title role, will be the attraction.

Amusement Notes.

The "Crystal Slipper" is drawing large audiences to the Grand, and is receiving enthusiastic approval for its gorgeous scenery, handsome costumes, attractive ballets and entertaining specialties. Little Tich has made a hit with his grotesque dancing.

"Storm Beaten," with the specialties of the California Sextette is a good drawing card at the People's.

"Alone in London" furnishes an interesting drama and some thrilling realism at Pope's.

Leavitt's Novelty Co. contains some of the cleverest performers who have been seen in St. Louis. The programme full of entertainment.

The sale of seats for the engagement of the Original New York Casino Co. in "Nadjy," one of the greatest of Casino successes, will open to-morrow at the Olympic.

Florence, in a new play with two new roles, in his great role of Capt. Cuttle and in "The Mighty Dollar," should make a strong demand for seats at the Grand next week. The sale will open to-morrow.

Sales of seats for "Shadows of a Great City," at Pope's; "Chip o' the Old Block," at the People's, and "Around the World in Eighty Days," at the Standard, will commence to-morrow.

IN THE COURTS.

Divorce Proceedings, Damage Suits, Judgments and Other Court Matters.

The divorce case of Henry Bruemmermann against Caroline Bruemmermann was tried before Judge Dillon this morning. The plaintiff in his petition says that they were married September 19, 1885, but did not live happily together because his wife cursed him and called him vile names. She told him that she did not care for him and once tried to scald him with a skillet of hot grease. Once she came home at midnight drunk, in a buggy with two men. He complained that she often got drunk and kept the house dirty and made other serious charges. Mrs. Bruemmermann filed a cross-bill and asked for a divorce on the grounds that her husband got drunk often, failed to provide for her, beat her and cruelly treated her.

MR W. C. STEIGERS

Will call on merchants wishing to contract for advertising in POST-DISPATCH. Telephone 284.

JACK, THE KISSER, AGAIN.

HE IS ONCE MORE INTERVIEWED BY THE "POST-DISPATCH" FEMALE REPORTER.

The Police Cannot Come Up With Him, But Miss Julia Hale Succeeds in Finding Him Twice—Excitement at Garrison Avenue and Locust Street Last Night—An Icy Kiss—Some Communications on the Subject.

THERE were numerous complaints received at the Four Courts to-day from residents in the vicinity of Garrison avenue and Locust street, who were much annoyed by the gathering at that corner of a company of young men and women. They were there to see "Jack, the Kisser," the very reckless young man who has kissed so many women on West End streets recently. He made an appointment to meet Miss Julia Hale, the young lady reporter of the POST-DISPATCH, there but did not materalize. The crowd amused itself by calling every man who passed "Jack, the Kisser," and every woman Julia Hale. This proved very annoying to persons who had to pass the corner. A policeman had to interfere at last, and the chief will probably order enough men to that corner to prevent such occurrences in the future.

Jack the Kisser has not yet been caught. He is believed by some to be a well-known business man who created somewhat of a sensation at a fashionable hop by offering $5 to a young lady for a kiss. She accepted the offer, it is said, greatly to the amusement of the company witnessing the transaction.

Julia Meets Jack Again.

That remarkable freak who calls himself Jack the Kisser, I have discovered, is an infamous liar. He is handsome enough to win legitimately all the kisses a reasonable man would ask, and yet he has adopted the cowardly plan of stealing sweets upon the street. When I saw his contemptible letter printed in the POST-DISPATCH last evening I had a good cry over it, and then came upon the determination to punish him for his meanness.

To think that I should be accused of submitting quietly to the caresses of a total stranger and upon the public streets! Bah! The charge is too gross.

I have not the comfort of knowing that I am protected by the pseudonym I have adopted for my identity is known to nearly all my friends, and by this time their friends have complete diagrams on the subject.

However, I did not expect to find journalism a bed of roses. Hitherto I have been surprised at the absence of difficulties, and now that I have met them am not to be dismayed.

THE PRESCRIPTION GIVEN ME

by the editor of the POST-DISPATCH when I asked, "How shall I write this horrible man story?" was "write as you think and feel." That is the reason I have been so very personal and so very intimate in this matter.

As I have said when I read Jack, the Kisser's, letter in the POST-DISPATCH last evening, I decided to punish him. On parting from me last Thursday night he said he would be at the corner of Garrison avenue and Locust street on Tuesday night. I had fully intended to meet him there and learn if possible something concerning his name, home and business. I intended to learn is as neatly as possible and had all day been trying to think out lines of conversation that might entrap him into revelations. I strongly suspected that he was familiar with the modern substitute for the yard stick, and expected to be able to make him talk shop.

But the letter entirely changed my plans. I resolved on a ruder line of attack. At my request the police reporter saw Capt. Fruchte of the Fifth Police District, and was assigned to help me in my scheme. I found him waiting by appointment at Olive and Garrison at 7 o'clock. He wore citizen's clothes. I told him to go into Dr. George Engelmann's yard, at the corner of Garrison avenue and Locust street, and wait until I should call for him.

Then I walked east to Ewing avenue, north to Locust street and west to the Church of the Messiah corner, where I expected Jack would be waiting. Imagine my surprise when reaching the church, I found the steps and coping covered with girls and young men. The church was dark and there seemed to be nothing in the neighborhood to account for such an assemblage. The windows of a boarding house across the street were filled with people. I walked quickly past the church, west across the avenue and found another assemblage on the northwest corner. I paused for an instant to see if my policeman was near, and then heard a girl say;

"There's Julia Hale."

There was a chorus of "Where? Where?" and realizing what it all meant I hurried on.

In printing the fact of my appointment with Jack, the Kisser, I had not thought that public curiosity would be aroused to such an extent. I had woman-like told every thing I knew without thought of the consequences.

Several boys followed me a few feet but were called back by their jeering companions and so luckily I escaped. I was in haste to get out of the neighborhood and turned north at the next corner. At Washington avenue I paused undecided, and feeling very much at sea as to what I should do drifted down Washington avenue to Garrison. There I could see the crowd about the church corner, and being fearful that some detaching fragments of the groups would approach and recognize me as the girl who had passed up Locust street a few minutes before, I ran north on Garrison avenue and turned the Union M. E. Church corner.

My good luck was with me. Standing in front of the church door on Lucas avenue was Jack, the Kisser.

How I longed for the big policeman, who, doubtless, was still secreted in Dr. Englemann's yard.

Jack started as I approached him, and seemed half inclined to run away.

"You did not keep your tryst," I said, banteringly.

"Where on earth did that mob come from?" he exclaimed. "I got into the middle of it before I had any idea they were there and it took all my nerve to get through safely."

I laughed at this.

SO BOLD AN OPERATOR

on strange feminine lips frightened by that crowd. His courage, it seemed, was only in the line of his passion.

"Did none of them know you?" I asked.

"One young man seemed to know me for he nodded and called me by name."

"Called you Jack the kisser?"

"N-no."

"What then?"

It was his turn to laugh.

I tried to lead him to talk of himself, but either I had lost the art of leading, being so excited over the experiences of the last ten minutes, or he was too adept. Then I wondered again where was my policeman. The idea occurred to me that by inducing him to walk about we might come upon a blue coat and I would demand his arrest. He was very willing to walk when I suggested that people might be coming by from Garrison avenue and Locust street.

We moved north on Lucas avenue slowly, talking, and he never once offering to kiss me.

"Did you write that awful letter printed in the POST-DISPATCH to-day?" I asked to open that topic.

JACK'S LETTER.

"You did not like it?"

"What woman would?"

"It was harder on you than I intended to make it, but you must own I was treated rather shabbily."

"In what way? Was not my report accurate as to every detail of our interview?"

"It was too accurate. It was photographic, and as I read it I felt the man you talked to was crazy. I am not crazy. I am as sane as any man of your acquaintance. I hold a position that brains and ability are required to fill, and I give satisfaction to my employers."

"Who are they?"

I had heard lawyers say that suddenly interjected questions would bring information sometimes that could not be drawn out by any other means. My sudden question failed of its purpose. I tried a more artful line of attack. As delicately as I could I hinted that he had interested me very, very much and I was personally curious concerning him. It had no effect. He saw through my game too quickly.

"It is enough for you to know I am Jack, the Kisser."

We had walked two blocks, two cold, windswept blocks and he

HAD NOT OFFERED TO KISS ME ONCE.

As he spoke the name as above we were passing a drug store with its great floods of red, blue and yellow light falling upon the sidewalk. He threw his left arm about my neck, with his right hand raised my veil until the ice crust formed by my breath congealing in the meshes over my mouth lay over my eyes. He pressed his ice-hung mustache against my nose and his cold lips against mine in a smothering-the-kittens kind of a kiss.

There was a loud "Hello!" directly in front of us.

Instantly Jack removed his grasp and was off like a streak down Lucas avenue, leaving me standing in front of a hilarious overcoated man, who was shaking with laughter.

"Catch him," I cried, "that is Jack the Kisser."

The man stopped shaking and in a second was off down the street. He was no match for Jack as I soon saw. His disappearance, however, lessened my embarrassment, and I hurried home.

JULIA HALE.

A Sanitary Suggestion.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The thrilling narrative of the recent exploits of "Jack the Kisser" contained in the last SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH has suggested to my mind sundry important facts in connection with the osculatory art which may be of interest to your readers:

As the identity of the champion osculator seems to be shrouded in deep mystery, and in consideration of the fact that he prowls around in the dim twilight hour seeking whom he may osculate, which makes it a difficult matter to recognize him, would it not be proper, from a standpoint of prudence and for hygienic reasons as well, to suggest to his kissership through the medium of the POST-DISPATCH, which he doubtless like everybody else reads, that he furnish a certificate signed by a reputable physician that he is not afflicted with any throat affection, and when presenting his card to his intended victims attach the following blank form to be filled out and returned to him:

1. Are you married or single?
2. What is your age, color and social standing?
3. Are you fond of the odor of garlic and onions?
4. Have you any brothers, male relations or friends? If so, how many and what is their pugilistic record?
5. Are you afflicted with diphtheria, laryngitis, bronchitis or any other laryngial trouble, which might possibly be promulgated by promiscuous osculation?

After this blank is properly filled out and returned to the Knight of Osculation, it will be in order for him to meet his victim, accidentally, of course, and beneath the shadow of some vine-clad tower in the West End satiate his longings for the sweet nectar of ruby lips for which his soul seems to pant so much, undisturbed and blissful in the happy consciousness that he will not jeopardize the health and happiness of either his victim or his own, and at the same time run no risk of getting hurt.

I think, however, that a better plan would be for the yearning knight to marry someone, if he is not already married several times, as such a course would obviate the necessity of measuring noses with strangers who might object to such a familiar proceeding and bring him to grief, and save him the trouble of meandering over the public highways at night when he should be enjoying the much-needed rest of a weary wanderer.

THE CARRIAGE DRIVERS' REPLY.

They Answer the Charge Made by the Evangelical Alliance.

The publication in the POST-DISPATCH of the resolutions passed recently by the Evangelical Alliance protesting against the alleged custom of carriage drivers stopping at saloons on the way home, has created much comment among the fraternity of carriage drivers. They have sent a card to this paper signed, giving their views on the matter. The card is as follows:

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I have noticed in your issue of the 28th a synopsis of a meeting held by the Evangelical Alliance or Christian ministry of St. Louis denouncing to a certain extent the much abused carriage driver of this city, a being who has never had an individual, either lay or clerical, speak favorably of him. Those men have adopted a set of resolutions censuring carriage drivers before a reading public. Not wishing to trespass on your valuable space I shall only take an item or two from those resolutions:

"1. Whereas, This feeling on the part of the ministry, especially the Christian bereaved, is habitually not respected but even outraged by the same being detained on returning from funerals for considerable length of time in front of various saloons even on Gods holy day—" The writer of this seems to forget God's holy night. If any of those gentlemen will leave their study for twenty-four hours on a stretch, they will have real facts to talk about by sitting on the seat with a driver; facts which they cannot get in the library and something more interesting than the carriage driver for the next meeting. The carriage driver does not wish to stop in front of saloons unless compelled to. He knows his place. The man who follows carriage-driving for a living is, on the whole, a temperate man, but there is another class of men or boys who follow carriage driving. It is a sort of an asylum for them. They have no visible means of support. They are called "extras." There are three or four lolling around nearly every stable. They get 25 or 50 cents for every funeral trip they make. These are the fellows that will stop at a road-house whether the occupants of a carriage like it or not. Most livery-stables in the city have from four to nine carriages and from two to five drivers. There are a few stables which keep a driver for each carriage at a salary of $30 or $40 a month. There is no doubt but that the driver has a good time at the public expense. His salary is too high; his hours are too short, and the water he uses to wash his vehicle is too warm. If the reverend gentlemen would make an effort to help instead of hurt, God would bless them and make their work serviceable to the cause of Christianity.

The third whereas reads: "We are persuaded that the responsibility for this practice does not lie with the undertakers, but with the drivers and saloon-keepers," and winds up with the experience a minister had with a driver in front of a saloon. I heard once a little story that illustrates this point. A gentleman in a little party was telling a most wonderful occurrence and when he had finished, everyone said: "Is it possible?" "Did you ever hear anything like it?" and all united in a wondering chorus except one man who said nothing. When asked why he was silent he said the story was wonderful if true. Bees have an unpleasant weapon, and one too ready for use. Every child has to be taught not to steal and lie and not to retaliate. So far as instinct is concerned it does not yet include the golden rule nor quite yet the ten commandments.

The doctrine best and most sincere
Is right to do and none to fear.

A CARRIAGE DRIVER.

THE PAINTERS.

They Adjourn—Next Convention to Be Held in This City.

The Master House Painters' and Decorators' Association of Missouri held the concluding session of the convention to-day. It was decided to hold the next annual convention in St. Louis on the first Tuesday in February. An adjournment was then taken. This evening the delegates will meet at the headquarters, No. 208 Fourth street, and attend the performance of the "Crystal Slipper" at the Grand Opera-house in a body. The officers elected yesterday were as follows: Geo. N. Pooler, St. Joseph, President; E. B. Matthew, St. Louis, First Vice-President; Geo. N. De Launney, Kansas City, Second Vice-President; Joseph Chimes, Jr., Third Vice-President; J. A. Best, Kansas City, Secretary, and C. N. Holland Treasurer.

After the adjournment at 1 o'clock the local Committee on Entertainment took the delegates out for a drive around the city.

He Would Not Beg.

Tom Goabout, the negro chicken and dog thief, was before Judge Cady this morning on a charge of begging. The police had evidently intended charging him with idling, but by mistake gave the wrong number of the ordinance.

A look of surprise spread over Tom's black face when the charge was read out to him, and he said:

"Why, you Honah, I nebbah begged in my life!"

Judge Cady who was hardly less startled than Goabout when he heard the charge remarked.

"Tom, I know you are innocent this time. You will never beg while there is anything left to steal. I will order a nolle prosequi entered in this case."

THEIR VENTURE FAILED.

THAT IS WHY MR. AND MRS. WM. DE H. CANFIELD ARE SAD.

The Troubles of a Lady and a Gentleman Well Known in St. Louis Society Circles—A London Dressmaker and a New York Modiste Come to St. Louis to Be Disappointed—Something of Their History.

TROUBLES in number and variety have descended upon the house of Canfield in this city. Things like troubles, they say, never come singly, and this old saw certainly finds no exception in this case. People who ride on the Olive street line have no doubt often seen a pretty little house near Twenty-eighth street that stands well back from the street behind a neat lawn with winding gravel walks. The number of the house is 2827. There is a gilt sign on the front of the house lettered simply thus: "Canfield." The proprietor and moving spirit of the place was Wm. de H. Canfield, an Englishman, who has been five years in America. About three years ago he and his wife came to this city from New York, where they were married, and started in business as fashionable dressmakers. According to Mrs. Canfield's story they did not succeed and yesterday the stationery firm of Levison & Blythe attached the place for an unpaid bill. A prior similar process of law had been brought by a New York firm, so that it could not be justly said that the family is at present the happiest on the continent. Indeed the case is quite the reverse. When opened their establishment on Olive street they were warmly welcomed by the fashionable people of the city. Mr. Canfield (who is now in New York, by the way) was a perfect gentleman in his manners, a very handsome man, and so far as his experience, appearance, address and social qualities were concerned should certainly have make a success in the business he undertook to operate. This was to furnish splendid costumes to society ladies and fill a want which had been long felt in St. Louis. In the course of his business both he and Mrs. Canfield became widely known among society people, and in these circles he was much admired for his ability in his trade and his very pleasant, soft and engaging manners. From some cause his debts became too large for him to handle quickly, and two of his creditors, Levison & Blythe and the New York house before mentioned, closed down upon him, and if he recovers himself and begins afresh he will be a more remarkable man than he is already accounted.

Mr. Canfield is a tall, well-formed man, probably 45 years old, about six feet in height and weighing about one hundred and eighty pounds. He is decidedly handsome and a genteel mustache aids his general appearance materially. He was a familiar figure and many people knew him by sight and always remarked his gentlemanly bearing and good presence. He always dressed in the height of fashion. In spring and fall his overcoats were the very flower of and he was exceedingly fond of kid gloves. As a general thing he wore straw-colored articles on his hands. He had a way of inspiring confidence at once, and the clerks and cashier at Levison & Blythe's were very favorably impressed with him.

A reporter for the POST-DISPATCH called on Mrs. Canfield this morning to elicit from her the latest developments in the troubles of herself and husband. At first she was averse to talking of her difficulties, saying that she had had too much said of her in the papers already, but she finally thawed out and consented to speak of her affairs. She said that Mr. Canfield did not own a single thing in the house. All the property there was her own. They had no intention of not paying their debts, and, in fact, would pay any bill that was presented.

"We owe Levison & Blythe $17," she said, "but we would have paid them had they done our work as we ordered. We bought letter paper from them which they did not prepare as we wanted it. We owe $100 here and about $600 in New York. We will stay here, pay our debts and continue our business. We certainly have not had much encouragement, though."

WHO THEY ARE.

From Mrs. Canfield was gleaned that she is a New Yorker by birth. She was born and raised in the metropolis, she said, and for eleven years was with Laforcade, "the most fashionable and best known modiste in the United States." When Laforcade's business on Fifth avenue was abandoned by that lady, Mrs. Canfield came on to St. Louis with her husband. His venture in St. Louis was his first attempt in business in America. For some years he had been with London establishments and it was there that he learned the business of ladies' dressmaking. He understood it thoroughly, she said. He did not go to New York to avoid paying the money he owed, but because he injured his back and was compelled to stay there until able to return. Mrs. Canfield could not say just what her plans were, but she would pay what she owed at all events.

JOHN L.'S LEGAL WIFE.

She Causes a Bad Split in a Salvation Army at Arctic.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., February 6.—Mrs. John L. Sullivan, the legal wife of the prize fighter, after listening to the persuasive eloquence of Capt. Howland of the Salvation Army battalion at Arctic, has become a convert, and the little town talks of nothing else. The fact became known at last Sunday morning's meeting when Mrs. Sullivan was present and Capt. Howland exhorted. It had been whispered in Arctic that the couple had more in common than mere religious interests. Mrs. Sullivan manages a boarding-house there, and rumor says the Captain has been very diligent in his visits at the house. Last Sunday the presence of Mrs. Sullivan at the meeting created a sensation and there was an exciting scene when Mary McLane, an old sweetheart of the captain, arose and denounced him in infuriated language. The meeting was split up, one-half led by Capt. Howland, with John L.'s wife in his wake, going to one end of the room, the other half, led by a deacon, occupying the other. Thus the services were continued. After the meeting it was announced that Mrs. Sullivan, the convert, would appear on the platform in the evening and exhort. This aroused the enemy and a body of them, men, women, seized a rail and started up the highway towards Mrs. Sullivan's house, where the Captain was at that time. It is not known whether the plan was to utilize the rail as a battering ram upon Mrs. Sullivan's front door, or whether it was for the purpose of riding the eloquent captain out of town. The attacking party halted near the Methodist Church, where the good folks urged them to respect the Sabbath and to seek for less vigorous methods of showing their dislike for the Captain.

Owing to the day's disturbance there was no evening meeting, and the keenly curious villagers did not enjoy the rare opportunity of hearing the wife of the prize-fighter exhort. The opponents of Capt. Howland are trying to take the church away from him, but he shows them a clear legal title. Mrs. Sullivan will probably appear next Sunday. Her native place is near here and her maiden name was Ann Bailey.

A Teacher's Presence of Mind.

CINCINNATI, O., February 6.—Miss Finn, a teacher on the ground floor of the Second Intermediate School, on Ninth street, near Main, saw this morning burning coals falling down the hot air draft from which the register opens. She knew the building was on fire. There are 700 pupils on the three floors. She gave the fire alarm in the prescribed way and the teachers instantly marshalled their pupils as if they were soldiers and marched them out as coolly as veterans down one stairway, while the firemen were running up another with their hose. Not a sign of panic was seen.

THE THUMAN FAMILY CAN'T RING THE BELL ON JUDGE CADY.

The Jefferson Avenue and Hickory Street Riot Fully Investigated in the Police Court To-Day—Dr. Thuman Insults Mrs. Powers in Court—The Testimony—End of a Celebrated Case.

The Thuman family of bell-ringers were before Judge Cady this morning, and this time they had the bells rung on them. His Honor did the tolling and it was a deep, sonorous $10-a-crack ring. It seemed that the entire section of the city around Jefferson avenue and Hickory street was on hand. There were doctors, druggists, butchers, shoemakers and everybody else, and women by the score, and all to swear that the Thuman cow-bell concerts were a public nuisance. The only thing lacking to complete the picture was the huge brazen cow-bell which Bobby Thuman had wielded so long and so well.

THE CHARGES

in court this morning were against Dr. George H. Thuman, the veterinary surgeon, his wife and his 10-year-old son Bobby. They were accused of disturbing the peace and there were to have been two separate charges against each, one for Saturday's bell ringing, and another for Sundays, but City Attorney Butler concluded it would be sufficient to charge them with Saturday's disturbance only, although the bell-ringing was kept up even Monday and Tuesday after the family had been served with summons to appear in court. The testimony showed the 14-year-old daughter, who was present in court, to have been as guilty as her brother, but as no charge had been preferred against her, she could not, of course, be fined. The mother was not present in court, her husband stating that he would stand responsible for her. The Thumans had no attorney, the horse-doctor interrogating the witnesses in his own peculiar style. There was really no need of any witnesses against them, as the doctor and his son convicted themselves by their own statements. The story as brought out at the trial was exactly as published exclusively in the POST-DISPATCH last Sunday. It was that the Thumans, who live at the southwest corner of Jefferson avenue and Hickory street, had trouble with Mrs. Ellen Powers, who lives next door at 2604 Hickory street, and that the young scion of the house of Thuman commenced a persistent persecution of Mrs. Powers by jangling a monstrous cow-bell whenever the lady showed herself out of her house. When the boy's arms tired of the exertion his mother would keep the bell moving until he got rested and was ready for another round. Saturday the nuisance became so great that J. T. Feager, who keeps a drug store at No. 2601 Hickory street, interfered and told the boy to desist. For his interference Mr. Feager had the boy sent over in front of his place to toll the bell. The druggist ran him away, but Robby returned with his papa, and reopened his concert. Dr. Thuman would say, "Now, Robby, play them the 'Chimes of Normandy.'" The boy would walk up and down in front of the drug store, making a most unearthly din with the bell and banging it on the sidewalk to produce particularly nerve-shattering effects.

"Bravo, my boy, you play that piece splendidly!" his father would exclaim in wraps admiration, and then he would add:

"Now Robby, let the people see how you can play 'Chippy Get Your Hair Cut.'"

This musical masterpiece would be given in the same soul-inspiring manner, while druggist Feager was all the time in his store taking chloroform and other slumber-producing drugs in hopes of escaping the sound. Robby flitted from Mrs. Powers to Mr. Feager, giving first one and then the other the benefit of his unwelcome selections. He was finally arrested, his mother and sister holding the officer's coat-tails to detain him. Capt. Fruchte released the boy as being too young to be responsible for his actions, when merely obeying his father's instructions. Then Mamma Thuman, her daughter and the released Robby gave a marvelous trio to celebrate the boy's liberation. Robby took a small dinner-bell, his sister a milkman's bell and his mother the masterful cow-bell. They rang these in concert, dancing to their own din and the small boys of the entire neighborhood gathered in rank and joined in the general racket. They kept it up Sunday, adding a tin horn to the orchestra On Monday the complaints were filed by the police.

While Mrs. Powers was giving her testimony this morning, Dr. Thuman in cross-examining her asked if she was not prejudiced against his children because they would not go for beer and whisky for her.

"That is false and you know it!" she exclaimed. "You are a liar!"

called her to order and she burst into tears, crying during the remainder of the trial and protesting against the manner in which she had been insulted.

Robby Thuman stated that he rang the bell under his father's instructions, and the father confirmed his story, stating that if the neighbors had come to him and asked him properly to make the boy stop he would probably have done so, but he proposed to run his children to suit himself.

"Well, Ill run them just now," remarked the Court. "I will fine the three of you $10 apiece."

Appeals were taken by Dr. Thuman.

SOME SUGGESTIONS.

Interesting Observations on the Dives From Citizens.

All of the better elements among the people of St. Louis are anxious to see the good work of dive suppression continued. The following are some of the suggestions that have been made by those whose interest has been excited:

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

In your good work against the slum saloons and dives you have overlooked one kind of saloons which are as bad as the slum saloon or dives and that is the saloons which are located on some of our most prominent streets and corners and which have a back room attached, where more crime is committed than in any slum saloon or dive. By your paper stirring up these dens you would do good work. The city should be rid of this class of saloons and make them do away with the back room where young girls are enticed in and made to drink, and where many a young man is ruined. A. FOX BOYER.

BUT THE LICENSES WERE GRANTED.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The closing of dives is a good move and ought to be followed up till all are closed, but why did the Collector issue licenses to Tim Keilly and Jack Labey and Len Cooper on Sixth street and Clark avenue, and also two more on Sixth and Spruce streets, and all along Sixth from Walnut to Cedar streets. How is it that they were not closed or licenses refused. Will our good Collector answer? It is to be hoped the POST-DISPATCH will investigate and help to suppress them at once for they ought to be closed, and the POST-DISPATCH will find this only too true upon investigating the same. A captain of police remarked the other day that any officer that would report those people of good and moral character should be dismissed from the force at once, but their cases were not referred to the Police Board for some reason best known in the Collector's office.

SETTING THEIR SAILS,

PLANS TO SECURE UNION LABOR SUPPORT FOR THE REPUBLICAN TICKET.

Resolutions Condemning the Present Penitentiary System Now in Circulation Among the Clubs—Judge Noonan Calls for an Open Door Caucus of His Supporters—Organization of the Democracy Throughout the State.

THE Republicans managers hope to make an arrangement by which the ticket will secure the support of the Union Labor party in the spring campaign. Last fall the Republicans traded off the legislative nominations for this support in the districts in which it was not certain that the Republican nominees could carry the election. In the Twenty-ninth Senatorial District and First Representative District Senator J. C. McGinnis and Representatives Martin, Reber and Pachall felt too sure of re-election to give any of the places on the ticket to the aspirants in the Union Labor party. In the other districts, which it was feared the Democrats would carry, the Republicans gave the legislative nominations to the Union Labor party. Since then the local Democrats have exerted themselves to secure places on the important committees of the General Assembly for the Union Labor representatives from St. Louis. It is too early to concede nominations to but the Republican clubs are strengthening the bonds with the laborers by adopting anti-convict labor resolutions.

The argument of the preambles now being circulated among the Republican clubs is as follows:

"Whereas, this State continues to employ convicts in ruinous competition with honest workmen, for which there is just ground for dissatisfaction and remonstrance on the part of the latter; and,

"Whereas, the penitentiary is for the reformation of criminals and the prevention and punishment of crime, it is a matter of little moment whether they are or are not self-sustaining. The State being able to feed, clothe and house its convicts, can do so with much detriment less than by pursuing a system whose bad influence is felt most keenly where it never should be, in the homes of honest, law-abiding and deserving poor. Believing that the cost of all articles coming from the penitentiary has much to do with the cost of like articles made in competing shops, and that the 40 cents a day wages of the convict serves to depress the wages of every non-criminal worker, it is then but just and proper that the State should think more of one industrious workman than of all its convicts, and much more than to use the criminal as a weapon to beat the workmen down, and be a means of increasing pauperism and crime."

By the adoption of resolutions opposing convict labor the Republican politicians hope to retain the support of the Union Labor party and to facilitate the real deal which will be proposed shortly before the city convention.

A STATE ORGANIZATION.

The Purpose of the Convention to Be Held in This City.

The State Democratic Committee, which has taken up the movement started by the Chairman of the City Committee to form a State organization of Democratic clubs has adopted the following resolution:

"That the chairmen of the County, Judicial, Congressional and Senatorial Committees, also the Presidents, or a delegate, from each of the Democratic Clubs of this State, be invited to attend a meeting to be held in this city at 10 o'clock a. m. on February 22, at the small hall of the Exposition Building, for the purpose of discussing matters of much importance to the Democracy of Missouri."

The convention was originally called for January 31 without consultation with the State Committee, but was postponed subsequently to the date mentioned in the resolution. The purpose of the convention is to form a State organization. The convention will be called to order in Entertainment Hall on the 22d inst. by Chairman Maffitt of the State Committee.

HE SAYS HE WILL WIN.

Judge Noonan Will Meet His Friends on Saturday Night.

Judge Noonan requests his Democratic friends to meet him at the Richelieu Hotel on Washington avenue between Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets, on Saturday night at 8 o'clock. The Judge explained the object of the meeting when seen to-day in the following words: "This meeting means an open, non-secret and active campaign for the mayoralty. I cannot submit to be the candidate of bosses, nor will I be the candidate of any secret clique or ring. The purpose of the meeting Saturday night is to get together my Democratic friends, and under their open guidance and direction become a candidate of the Democratic party. I have enough encouragement already to satisfy me that I will be the Democratic nominee, and that I will gather around me the Democracy of this city and win."

Political Notes.

The Kimball Republican League Club meets Thursday evening in the hall at Taylor and Easton avenues, Twenty-eighth Ward.

The Republicans of the Sixteenth Ward held a meeting last night at Teutonia Hall, Twenty-second and Montgomery streets. The indorsement of the Thirty-fifth General Assembly, tendered the Hon. Chauncey I. Filley, was adopted.

The Log Cabin Republican Club of the Eighteenth Ward met at 4083 Glasgow avenue last night, President Ed L. Graubner and Secretary W. H. Comelin to charge. The club is in a promising financial condition and has a large membership.

The Sixth Ward Republican Club will meet to-morrow evening at 3709 North Broadway.

The Irish American Republican League will hold their regular meeting to-morrow evening at Speibrink's Hall, 1319 Franklin avenue. Gen. John W. Noble, Col. D. P. Dyer and Congressman Nathan Frank will address the meeting.

The Gamer convict labor resolution was read and met a unanimous adoption. President Henry C. Meyer retired from the office and an election of the following officers ensued: President, Chas. F. Winneke; First Vice-President, H. C. Lampkemeyer; Second Vice-President, F. Allenberg; Secretary, Aug. Gundlach; Treasurer, R. W. Beerman; Executive Committee: Messrs. Fleer, Friemeyer and Donneberg, with Messrs. Dahmann, Dressing, Wiegand, Meyer, Miller, Stodieck and Fincke as Finance Committee. After adjournment the large crowd enjoyed an inviting lunch.

BROKE THROUGH THE ICE.

A TERRIBLE DISASTER AT PINE LAKE, FULTON COUNTY, N. Y.

The Ice Gives Way Under a Party of Loggers —Seventeen Drivers and Twenty-Four Teams Drowned—Meager Details of the Sad Calamity—Heart-Rending Scenes in a Lone Region.

By Telegraph to the POST-DISPATCH.

CANAJOHARIE, N. Y., February 6.—Vague news reached here Monday night of a calamity which occurred in the afternoon at Pine Lake in Fulton County, and which will cause a shock in all the Mohawk Valley region. According to the information received the ice gave way under a party of loggers engaged in drawing logs across the lake and of the number seventeen were drowned. Pine Lake is up among the big hills of Fulton County, in the midst of the pine forests which are the chief wealth of the region. As its name indicates it is in the heart of the pine lumber districts, and it is a highway, particularly in winter, for the loggers. From the hills all around big logs are dragged over the snow to the lake, and then are easily slid over the ice to their destination. At times the lee presents the appearance of a highway in the neighborhood of a thickly settled town, so numerous are the men and teams. At other times, when the ice is gone or is too thin to bear the heavy weight, the lumbermen disappear and it is lonely enough. In summer the lake and the surrounding country form a paradise for sportsmen who care to undertake the difficulties and inconveniences of the journey. Besides these, few visit it. It is far from railroads or telegraph office.

One may travel miles around the lake without coming across a human habitation. The so called roads leading to it are mere logging roads, many of which are nothing more than a bed of a water course. But quite a colony gathers about the lake in winter. The loggers are most of them farmers or farm hands from this part of the State and many of them take their wives and children along with them when they begin

THEIR WINTER'S WORK.

Their camps present, therefore, something of the appearance of a village. In view of the difficulty of reaching the scene of the calamity, especially at this season of the year, it was impossible up to a late hour last night to secure any exact details of the loss of life or the names of the victims. It has also been impossible to learn anything of the condition of those who were injured or how many they numbered. What is known of the accident is derived from the story narrated by a farmer who came to town yesterday afternoon, and who received his information from a messenger from the logging camp which had been dispatched to the nearest village in search of assistance.

According to his narrative, twenty-four teams started from the upper end of the lake Monday afternoon to drag logs to the receiving points. Some of the logs drawn were genuine monarchs of the forest, of great length and girth. The enormous weight thus laid upon the ice may therefore be conceived. It is declared also that the ice has been of less thickness than usual this season, owing to the mild weather. Some surprise is therefore felt that experienced loggers should have allowed so large a party to cross the lake together. The party had got nearly opposite the camp where many of the loggers live when there was a warning cracking and the next moment teams and logs and drivers were mixed in confusion with the big chunks of ice in the water. The scene that followed is described as heartrending and

AWFUL BEYOND DESCRIPTION.

The men who remained in the camp, the women and children crowded to the brink of the broken space in the ice but found themselves powerless to do more than drag half a dozen of their fellows out of the water and stood there shrieking and piteously bemoaning the fate of brothers, husbands or fathers. Seventeen of the drivers escaped; seventeen drivers and all the teams were drowned. It is said that the drivers who escaped were those who had been walking some distance to one side of the caravan, and thus were near the firm ice when the crash came. As for the others, they were either sunk by the heavy clothing in which they were bundled or were dragged down by being caught between the logs or the teams. No doubt some were disabled or by being crushed could make no effort to save their lives. Up to the time the messenger left no attempt had been made to recover the bodies, no suitable apparatus being at hand. Drags will be sent to the lake at once.

The deepest grief will be felt in the Pine Lake region if the news prove true in its entirety. The loggers of the region are of the most hardy kind, but they are also honest and good citizens. Many of them are men of family, and it will probably be necessary to take up a subscription for the benefit of their widows and orphans. The region is so remote from telegraph offices or railroads, and traveling is so difficult that it is scarcely possible that authentic details of the calamity can be obtained soon.

No Further Particulars.

CANAJOHARIE, N. Y., February 6.—No further particulars regarding the logging disaster at Pine Lake, by which seventeen men lost their lives by drowning, have been received. Editor George H. Bakeley of the Johnstown Democrat, who resides within eight miles of the scene of the alleged accident, said to-day that he could not verify the report before he left. It is the one topic of conversation throughout Fulton County, however. If the accident occurred the theory is that the twenty-five teams were a few rods apart, and when they struck the smooth ice began racing and became bunched at one side; breaking through, and there being no means at hand to rescue them all were drowned.

The Sailor in American Literature.

W. Clark Russell in America.

Strange I think it is that the only absolutely accurate reproduction of Jack is to be found in American literature. The English fictionist has done little more for the sailor than to caricature him. He is at one extreme or the other. Even in the best of Marryat's men there is a hint of caricature. When, however, you turn to American letters you find the real thing. How is the sailor, either British or American, to feel grateful enough to the memory of Richard Dana? I cannot feel but as a sailor; though I quitted the life a great while since, and my leaning toward that writer will be intelligible. What had there been like his book before? What has been written like it since? There is no sort of professional revelation in any walk that I can call to mind comparable with it. Here is a man, a university graduate, who, leaving ashore all comfort, all luxury, all refining influence, steps into the dusky forecastle of a little brig bound to the remote, inhospitable coast of California, and, with the pigments of his experiences, produces as incomparable a canvass as ever detained the eye. It is in Dana's volume that you find the real American sailor. There it is that you eat with him, drink with him, sleep with him, suffer all ocean hardships with him, participate in his child-like merry-makings, and learn to value and honor his rough, generous, simple nature.

Dan Webster as a Financier.

From the Lewiston Journal.

Daniel Webster once found a good way of getting rid of a borrower.

"Webster," said Rufus Choate, "I want to borrow $500 and I wish you'd lend it to me."

"I haven't the money to-day, Mr. Choate," said Mr. Webster, "but you give me your note and I can get it cashed for you."

Gratified beyond measure Choate sat down to write his note.

"By the way, Choate," said Webster, in an off-hand way, "you might as well make that note for $1,000. I can use $500 myself."

"Certainly," said Choate, cheerfully, and he signed a note for an even $1,000.

Then the immortal Daniel sauntered down to a banker's office.

"Can you discount a note for $1,000 for me?"

"With pleasure," said the banker.

The great stateman pocketed $1,000 in bills, gave $500 to Choate, who was effusive in his thanks, and kept the other $500 himself.

MONEY.

NEW YORK, February 6, 11 a. m.—There was decidedly more vim to the speculation this morning and first prices, as compared with the final figures of last evening, were from ⅛ to ½ per cent higher, the latter in Louisville & Nashville. The tone of the general market was strong throughout the greater portion of the hour, and fractional advances over the opening prices were made all over the list. Grangers were the only marked exceptions and they yielded small fractions only. C., C., C. & I. was again the great feature, however, resuming its upward movement on a large business it quickly advanced 3 per cent to 73½ and was followed by Cotton Oil with 1⅞ and Chicago, St. Louis & Pacific, with 1 per cent. The Vanderbilts led the rest of the list, but there was a slight reaction toward the end of the hour, when C., C., C. & I. retired over 1 per cent, but at 11 o'clock the market was again active and strong at or near the best prices reached.

Noon—Money is easy at 2@3 per cent. Bar silver, 92¾c. The market showed considerable weakness after 11 o'clock and most stocks were carried back to about the opening figures and some a shade below. Burlington & Quincy became the leading weak stocks and rapidly declined until at its lowest point it showed a net loss of 1⅞ per cent. Rock Island was also 2 per cent below, although most of its loss was in the first hour. There was less animation, but a stronger tone later, and no marked improvement took place. There were no further losses, and at noon the market was comparatively quiet and firm at opening figures for the majority of the list.

3 p. m.—The stock market closed active and strong at about the best figures of the day.

BOSTON, February 6.—Mexican 4s 70¾@71½; stock 13⅝@14; scrip 100⅛@⅛. Allouez 3⅞@4; Calumet 280@283; Huron 5@¼.

LONDON, February 6, 12:30 p. m.—Consols opened at 98 15-16 for money, and 99 1-16 for the account.

St. Louis Markets.

REGULAR SESSION, CLOSING 1:15 P. M.

Withdrawals from store yesterday included 12,800 bu wheat by local millers and 1,460 bu for rail shipment and 17,130 bu oats for river shipment.—It is noteworthy that in the extended statement of visible supply of wheat this week every winter wheat point shows a decrease. Prime is quoted as saying that never since he began his repo ts have the reserves in hands of farmers at this date in the year been so light as they are now—Complaints are coming in from different sections, both East and West, of the continued dryness. The ground is frozen hard and holds very little moisture. It is bare of snow and there are grave apprehensions expressed regarding its effect upon the winter wheat crop. No actual damage is as yet reported.—The grade of wheat in store in England is reported as low. There is a difference of 27 cents between prices for English wheat and fresh California wheat, while 10 cents is usually the maximum difference. They need good wheat on the other side, and they are obliged to pay for it.—New York to Green: "Cables wheat quieter. Liverpool, California options tending downward. Corn favors buyers." To Roper: "Liverpool dull, tending downward; demand off for shipment and passage cargoes." To Ewald: "London dull, and expect a reaction downward." "Cables have turned very weak."—Chicago to Ewald: Minneapolis millers are reported to have marked up the price of flour 25c a barrel yesterday and report a better inquiry.—Chicago "Tribune" special from Minneapolis says: "Stock of wheat in Minnesota and Dakota outside of farmers' hands, 17,000,000 bu, against 35,000,000 bu one year ago. Quantity left in farmers' hands probably about one-half what it was a year ago."—Stocks of flour in twelve cities on February 1, 1889, were 1,049,300 bbl, against 1,243,100 bbl on January 1, 1889, and 613,900 bbl on February 1, 1888.—"Corn is so cheap," said a Chicago packer, "that pork is bound to sell for little money. That 35c corn makes $3.50 hogs is an adage of the trade. Besides this the hogs that are being received are so much heavier than usual that there is a gain of nearly 33 per cent from this cause alone."—The stocks of lard in the principal European markets and afloat on February 1, 1889, were 82,800 tcs, against 69,400 one month ago, 86,800 one year ago, and 119,300 two years ago.—Chicago's report on the amount of wheat on ocean passage shows 640,000 bu decrease.—New Orleans cleared 20,500 bu corn for Liverpool.—Exports of wheat from Baltic and Black Sea ports last week are reported at 3,000,000 bu, against 560,000 the week before, and 1,520,000 same time last week.—Lindblohm, Chicago, wired Burns: "Market not as weak as it looks. Buy on breaks."

—Corrected returns on Baltic port exports last week were 960,000 bu to United Kingdom and 160,000 bu to Continent, a total of 1,120,000 bu.—Latest cables were said to be 1c lower.—There is a scarcity of ships on the Pacific coast, and ocean freights have advanced. The supply of wheat is small, considering it is about five months before the next crop will be ready for shipment. Present low prices in Europe forbid present export except at a loss, and unless there should be a material advance the export from California and Oregon is likely to be very light for some time to come.—The recent rise on the ruble in Russia is equivalent to 3c per bu advance in the price of wheat.—March corn sold in St. Louis to-day at 29⅜c. At the same times St. Louis buyers were bidding in the country a figure equivalent to 30c for No. 2 here, but could not purchase, as Peoria was paying 30½c for new mixed and Duluth 30⅛c for No. 3. This is a specimen case of the way St. Louis bears work for their market.

Wheat bulls' lately worked-up faith in ultimately higher prices received a sudden and severe shock this morning. The strong, excited and higher cables of yesterday were non est this morning, which fact made many believe that yesterday's bull cable was not an honest one—excuse the execrable pun. All the English markets were quoted as tending down, and there wasn't a sign of yesterday's reported strength, and Beerbohm quoted French country markets dull. Receipts at primary points showed an increase, too, generally, at this market running five times more than one year ago, and at eleven points aggregating 138,000 bu, and the decrease in stock here was small. So that though the weather was very cold, with no snow anywhere in the winter wheat section, and another report on "ocean wheat" made it 640,000 bu decrease, there was so much for sale that the market broke down. To be sure it would not have done so had not Chicago led off on the down grade, but the course marked out by that market sent the whole local bear contingent in as sellers; and a collapse resulted. It was the report that South of Europe ports exported 3,000,000 bu for the United Kingdom and Continent last week (this was a mistake, too) that started Chicago's decline, and though St. Louis bears didn't know why they tailed after with wild enthusiasm after the other market. It had several ups and downs before the close, which was ¼c below yesterday. May ranged from 96⅜c to 95½c, and closed at 95⅝c; July at 84⅝c to 83⅞c, and closed at 84⅛c bid. There was little done in spot grades as most local millers were out of the market and sellers were not pressing their stock. No. 2 red had 93c bid for U., V. and St. L.; No. 3 red, 91½c bid regular; No. 4, 82c bid for E.; rejected offered regular at 67½c and for E. 70c bid.

Corn had a very sick spell this morning. Nearly every trader in the pit appeared to be extremely bearish or to have some May for sale, and the flood of offerings that came upon the market overpowered the demand and sent the price below 32c. There was no let up to receipts and the stock showed over 160,000 bu increase, bringing the total of No. 2 above the 3,000,000 bu mark. Country advices were of continued free farmers' deliveries, with cold weather and good roads. Cables were dull and weak and the Atlantic seaboard markets declining and Chicago exhibited more weakness than has been shown there for many a day. May opened at 32⅛c and declined to 31⅜c, closing at 31⅞@⅞c, which was ⅜c below yesterday. May No. 2 white was offered at 34½c and 34c bid. Spot grades were easy and the demand was slack, but there was no pressure to sell. No. 2 sold in C., M., U. and A. at 29½c, and that bid for E. and V.; No. 3 at 28⅝c in C. and M., 28⅝c bid for E.; No. 4 at 28¼c in C.; No. 2 white at 31½c in U., 32⅛c in C.; No. 3 do at 31½c in C., 31½c bid St. L.

Oats—Despite the weakness in wheat and corn and the good receipts, the demand for May at 28c remained so steady for a while that it held the market firm. Finally it dropped off to 27⅞c, which was asked at close and 27⅞c bid. Spot grades were lower to sell, which checked business. No. 2 had 24½c bid St. L.; No. 3 white, 24½c bid E. side; No. 3 sold in U at 23¾c, and for St. L., C. and E. side, 23c bid. No grade, 22c bid for A.

Rye was lower, but the demand did not improve. A few cars No. 2 sold in U and St. L. at 46½c.

Flour—Firm, and steady rates readily realized. There was a very fair demand, too. Some mills reported an excellent demand, and the floor trade was good, too. Quotations: XXX, $3.10@3.15; family, $3.25@3.35; choice, $3.50@3.60; fancy, $4.25@4.35; extra fancy, $4.55@4.65; patents, $5.10@5.30. These prices for lots at depots and on levee this side.

Bran—Dull and easy. Sales of bulk at East Side points at 52c; sacked at do do at 56c; f. o. b. Easttrack at 58c; small order lots delivered by dealers at 63@65c.

Hay was dull and unchanged: Sales ranged: On west tracks—Prairie, common to choice, $5@7; fancy, $8@8.50; mixed timothy, common, $7@9; prime to choice, $9@10; timothy—prime to strictly prime, $10@11; choice to strictly choice, $12@12.50; fancy, $13@13.50.

Provisions were very dull and the feeling was weak. Loose dry salt, 30-day f. o. b. on orders: Shoulders, 5⅛c; longs and c'ribs, 6.20c; shorts, 6.40c. Packed bacon—Shoulders, 6c; longs, 7c; c'ribs, 7⅛c; shorts, 6.90@7⅛c; loose shorts, 7.02⅛c. Standard mess, f. o. b., according to size of lots at $11.50@12. Prime lard, 6⅞c, this side, and 6.85c bid f. o. b., E. track; fancy leaf, 7⅝c; second brand, 7⅛c; country good to choice, 6⅞@7c; manufacturing, 6@6⅛c. Sugar-cured hams, 10@12c; breakfast bacon, 9⅛@10⅛c. Beef—Family, $8.50@10 ⅌ bbl, on orders higher, $4.50@5.50 ⅌ half bbl; dried, 6⅛@9⅛c; selected, 11c ⅌ lb; smoked tongues, $4@5 ⅌ doz. Salt—Domestic, $1.05 ⅌ bbl on E., $1.10 on this side. Ground alum, $3.15@3.25 ⅌ 125-lb sack; small way higher.

Highwines unchanged at $1.03 in St. Louis, Cincinnati and Chicago, $1.04 in Peoria.

Lead flat and no business transacted. Corroding could easily be bought at $3.50, but the only bid was $3.45 for a "few cars." New York was unchanged at $3.75 for lead and $4.90 for spelter.

Leaf Tobacco.

Furnished by the Evans Bros. Warehouse Co.: The market was fairly active this morning, although prices were not up to the views of sellers. The weather was very cold, which interfered to a marked degree with the attendance of buyers and cooled the ardor of those present. With the earnest co-operation of the buyers a good market can be established here, as there is some Kentucky stock coming in and large receipts will follow if prices are on a par with other markets—Cincinnati and Louisville—freight added. Sales at the Evans warehouse to-day were as follows: Kentucky leaf—1 hhd each at $5.75, $6.50, $6.75, $6.25, $4.50, $6.25, $7, $7.25, $6.25, $8, $8 and $7. Missouri leaf—1 hhd each at $6, $5.50, $5, $5, $5.95, $5.50, $6, $6.75. There will be another break at the Evans Warehouse on Friday, when a large line of Kentucky leaf will be put on the market.

Afternoon Curb.

Wheat—May, 95⅞c; puts, 94⅛c, and calls, 96⅛; July, 83¾@83⅞c sellers. Chicago—May, 99⅞c bid. Reported that the Indianapolis meeting of winter wheat millers agreed to continue running on half capacity for another month. This caused latest weakness.

Chicago Letter.

Telegraphed the Redmond Cleary Commission Co.

CHICAGO, February 6.—Business in wheat has been largely local. The conflict of bullish advices from the Northwest and weaker advices from abroad has kept prices wavering between $1.00½ and 99⅛c, closing about $1. I feel friendly to wheat and would advice purchases on breaks. CHAS. SCHWARTZ.

The Manchester Market.

MANCHESTER, England, February 6.—The Guardian, in its commercial article, says:

The market is rather dull. Few departments did an average Tuesday's business yesterday. Sellers are much impressed by the hardening tendency of cotton and are therefore not inclined to press for fresh orders, except at extreme rates and they are rarely obtainable. Buyers would rather wait than purchase in anticipation of the situation, not being affected by the strength of cotton. There are some inquiries for India plain staples, chiefly shirtings, but as a rule the prices offered rarely exceed the lowest rates current in December. As they are now quoted higher the result is small sales. Altogether China merchants have few orders. Advices by telegraph are less encouraging than those by mail. There is quite a steady business for the smaller foreign markets, but merchants are cautious, and few are inclined to act in anticipation, even where prices are temptingly low. Home houses are doing little, yet some departments are more lively than a fortnight ago. The demand for export yarns is inactive. Few important orders have been executed. Spinners hold for Friday's full rates, but these are rarely practicable, except for small quantities. The home demand is light. The tone of cloth is quiet. The inquiry for India jacconets is poor. The few orders for mulls and dhooties on the markets are practicable only at the lowest prices lately current. The inquiry for printers and finishing cloths is poor, yet the orders in hand have been mostly executed, sellers readily accepting the recent rates although they will not submit to any decline. Heavy goods for the foreign markets are steady with moderate sales. There is little home inquiry.

CATTLE—There was a fair amount of activity witnessed, but prices were by no means strong, and sellers were glad to obtain yesterday's range. Offerings were moderate and of pretty good quality, the bulk consisting of fair to good and choice corn-fed native steers with a few droves of Texas cattle. Plenty of buyers were around, yet were not very urgent in their demands. They just took enough to fill immediate wants as they still distrust the future. Reports from other points denote fair runs, and prices about steady. The inquiry for fair stockers and breeders a little larger. Prices for these, however, remain hard. Mixed butcher stuff sold well enough, all things considered. Cows, heifers, etc., show up well in the sales given below. Veal calves scarce and wanted at $5@9 per head.

Choice shippers, $3.50@4; good native shippers, $3@3.40; fair to medium steers, $2.50@2.90; common steers, $2.20@2.40, stockers and feeders, $1.75@2.75; corn-fed Texas steers, $2.75@3.50; grass Texas steers, $2.15@2.75; cows and heifers, $1.75@2.75; bulls, $1.75@2.50; veal calves, $5.00@8.00 per head.

HOGS—It may be said the market was fairly active at a shade decline from the prices prevailing yesterday. Offerings were comparatively light, some forty car loads, and of pretty good quality. The different classes of buyers were on hand and all of them made purchases. Good, smooth hogs of 170 to 210 lbs were again the best selling, and brought as much as choice heavy. Packers moved with some caution, but their wants are large, nevertheless, and they cannot obtain as many as they want. Yorkers, $4.70@4.80; mixed to good packing, $4.60@4.75; butchers and select heavy, $4.70@4.80; pigs, $4.40@4.60.

PUTTING ON WAR PAINT.

THE HIGH LICENSE QUESTION IN THE MISSOURI LEGISLATURE.

The Anti-Saloon Advocates to Steal a March on Moran in the Senate—A Bill to Make the Annual License in St. Louis $4,000 Per Annum—The Cattle Combine—Legislative Proceedings.

By Telegraph to the POST-DISPATCH.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., February 6.—The POST-DISPATCH correspondent has just been informed that action will be taken in the Senate to-morrow which will precipitate the contest on the high license and liquor regulation question. A bill will be introduced more stringent in its provision than any which has yet been offered, and which fixes the dram-shop license for St. Louis at $4,000 per annum. The fight is on now and both sides are prepared for the conflict. Moran of St. Joseph will champion the saloon side and Smith of Bollinger, Chairman of the Committee on Criminal Jurisprudence, will lead the anti-saloon forces. Last Friday the Senate instructed the Committee on Criminal Jurisprudence to return all of the dram-shop bills to the Senate, to the end that they might be re-referred to some other committee. This was done at Moran's instance, because he thought the committee favored the Deering high-license bill and would report in favor of its passage. The committee will probably return the bills in the morning, and Smith of Bollinger, to head off Moran and prevent the bills being sent to Moran's committee, where they are in danger of being killed outright, will move that the Senate consider all liquor regulation bills in committee of the whole. This will be the signal for the opening of hostilities and the fun will begin.

Gov. Francis placed himself on record this morning as opposed to the beef and cattle trusts and combinations. In a message to the House of Representatives this morning he said:

"GENTLEMEN—I have the honor to submit to you for your consideration a joint and concurrent resolution passed by the Legislature of Kansas and forwarded to me by the Governor of that Commonwealth. The resolution calls attention to the existence of a beef and pork 'combine' or 'trust,' and cites the fact that the evils of such an organization can be most effectually remedied by concerted and uniform legislation on the part of the States suffering therefrom. It is advisable that appropriate action be taken by your honorable body, that will tend to relieve or lighten the hardships under which the agricultural interests of our State are laboring. It is claimed, and not without reason, that while the value of the cattle in the hands of the producer has been greatly reduced, the price of beef to the consumer has not been materially lowered. I can see no objection to the proposed conference between the Legislatures of the States interested through appropriate committees, and it is likely much good may result therefrom. Very respectfully, DAVID R. FRANCIS, Governor."

THE KANSAS RESOLUTION.

The Kansas resolution, which accompanies the message of the Governor, provides for a convention of representatives through appropriate committees of the Legislatures of the different States before which cattle "combine" and meat inspection bills are pending.

As stated in the POST-DISPATCH two weeks ago, the cattle inspection bill will be one of the most important measures of the session.

A delegation of St. Louis butchers will appear before the Committee on Benevolent and Scientific Institutions in favor of the bill Thursday afternoon, and the following afternoon the Kansas City packers will present their side of the case. The Governor's message on the subject will be referred to a special committee of the House for a report.

IMPORTANT BILLS.

Mr. Madera of St. Louis introduced in the House a bill of considerable importance to the large cities of the State, relating to the granting of franchises to corporations by municipalities. The first section of the measure reads as follows:

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Missouri as follows: That it shall not be lawful for a Municipal Assembly of any city or important town in this State to grant a franchise for the use of or occupancy of any street or streets, or alleys, wharf or public property therein, to any elevated or underground or surface railroad, or street railroad, cable, electric or horse-power, gas, fuel or tower electric light or tower companies.

Sec. 2. The Municipal authorities of cities or incorporated towns in this State are hereby authorized to construct any or all of the above named improvements if necessary for the public welfare."

Mr. Paschall of St. Louis introduced in the House this morning a bill providing for the rearrangement of the State Senatorial and Representative District of St. Louis, the lines to conform with the new ward boundaries of the city.

Mr. Young of Buchanan County introduced a bill increasing the salary of the Commissioner of Permanent Seat of Government to $1,300 per annum.

THE SENATE PROCEEDINGS.

The Senate held a short session this morning. Senator Anderson introduced three revision bills and Senator Bybee offered a resolution, which was adopted, fixing the time for committee meetings. Reports were received from standing committees and the Senate adjourned until to-morrow morning.

THE HOUSE PROCEEDINGS.

In the House this morning Mr. Mueller of St. Charles offered a resolution, which was adopted, providing for the appointment of a Republican member to take the place of Hon. James Moore of Laclede on the Insurance Department Investigating Committee. Mr. Moore is seriously ill with pneumonia and will not be able to go to St. Louis.

Bills were introduced as follows:

By Mr. Rotterman: An act to prohibit the use of unclean barrels and butter tubs.

By Dr. Newberry: An act to establish a uniform system of school books.

By Mr. Mueller: An act to regulate instruction in public schools.

By Mr. McGarr: An act compelling employers to allow employes time to register at election times.

By Dr. Newberry: An act to amend the local option law.

By Mr. Young: An act establishing a manual training school in connection with Lincoln Institute.

By Mr. Silver: Bills revising the practice act.

Mr. Hereford's bill, prohibiting the teaching of German or any other language but English in the public schools, was called up for engrossment. Aydelott of Warren and Mueller of St. Charles spoke against the measure, while Hereford of Chariton County and Jones of Stone spoke in its favor. The bill was ordered to engrossment and the House adjourned until to-morrow morning.

A BIG RAILROAD DEAL.

The 'Frisco Buys the Dallas Branch of the Santa Fe.

By Telegraph to the POST-DISPATCH.

PARIS, Tex., February 6.—For some days there has been a rumor afloat here to the effect that the St. Louis & San Francisco Railroad Co. had bought the line of the Gulf, Colorado & Santa Fe from this city to Dallas. Monday night, President Strong of the Santa Fe arrived here from St. Louis in company with officials of the 'Frisco. They were met here by other officials of the Santa Fe and a long conference was held in the private car of President Strong. All attempts through the regular channels of obtaining information failed to elicit anything. It, however, transpires that the Treasurer of the Santa Fe Co. had been telegraphed from St. Louis to meet Strong and the 'Frisco people here with the seal of the company and other important documents and papers. Tuesday morning the 'Frisco people went north and the Santa Fe folks south and there is no longer a doubt that the 'Frisco has bought the Santa Fe to Dallas and that it will take charge of it in a short time. The transaction is causing much uneasiness in local circles, and the announcement in the Paris Morning News that the sale had been consummated set the local officials to inquiring how it obtained its information. They do not deny that the sale has been made.

GONE HOME.

Mrs. Annie Ray, the Mysterious Woman of the Union Depot.

Mrs. Annie Ray, the woman who had been hanging around the Union Depot for two weeks and was such a mystery until she related her tale as published in yesterday's POST-DISPATCH, has departed. She returned this morning to her home in Zanesville, O. She had started with her children to visit her sister at Wichita Falls, Tex., but when she reached this city her husband summoned her back. Instead of the remittance she was to have received here to pay her expenses, she got return tickets for herself and children. She sent back the children but sold her own ticket and remained, being determined to bring her husband to her terms and make him send her money. After getting out of funds and into debt she weakened in her purpose and telegraphed for money to pay her bills and a ticket to return on. They arrived yesterday and she left this morning. She says she is not through with her husband and vows that she will leave again and will not be handicapped by the children, whom she will leave at home. Then she will make her husband come to terms.

TERRIBLE ACCIDENT.

John Love, a Switchman, Terribly Mangled by a Locomotive.

John Love, a switchman on the Iron Mountain road, met with a very painful and serious accident last night at the Stein street crossing. He was standing in the middle of the track between the rails waiting for the switch engine, expecting to step on the foot board in front. In some manner he missed his footing and fell directly in front of the machine, which pushed and rolled him along the track for twenty-five or thirty feet. The engineer stopped as soon as he could, and Lane was extricated from under the front of the engine. One ear had been scraped completely off, and dust and cinders were rubbed into his skin in a hundred places. Besides the injuries he was severely bruised in other places. He was taken to Dr. Starkloff's office and from there to the Missouri Pacific Hospital.

A Victim of Hydrophobia.

CHICAGO, Ill., February 6.—William Frost, the Palatine farmer who was bitten a few weeks ago by a rabid dog, died last evening from hydrophobia. The violent spasms which he suffered since Friday gradually subsided Monday night, and the patient became exhausted. The end was comparatively peaceful. All the symptoms of hydrophobia were, however, plainly perceptible. At times the patient became conscious of his surroundings, but these were brief intervals and were followed by frightful convulsions. Yesterday secretions gathered in his throat and produced foaming at the mouth. This continued until last evening when he died. Frost was bitten six weeks ago. His wounds were cauterized by a physician and he afterwards went to Indiana, where a "madstone" was applied until it would no longer adhere. From this it was believed that all danger was passed.

THE worry of a constant cough, and the soreness of lungs, which generally accompanies it, are both remedied by Dr. Jayne's Expectorant.

THE PEDIGREE, CAREER AND RECORD OF FIGHTER JACK M'AULIFFE.

He Preferred Prize Ring Battles to Work in a Cooper Shop—His Amateur Fights—What He Has Done Since Turning Professional—A List of His Victories—Sporting News and Notes—Ball Gossip.

THE Chicago Inter-Ocean prints this interesting history of Jack McAuliffe, who is shortly to fight Billy Myer of Streator:

Jack McAuliffe is an Irish boy. He was born in Cork, Ireland, of parents of pure Irish blood, on March 24, 1867. Irish is regarded among sporting men as the best of fighting stock, and McAuliffe is sure enough Irish. But beside, his parental ancestor was something of a fighter himself, "and there was ne er a gossoon in the village dare trod on the tail of his coat," and many a Cork head has tested to its regret the strength of his shillalah blow.

When Jack was but a few months old the Fenian movement was in its inception. McAuliffe's father took great interest in the movement, and he organized the hands in the brewery in which he was employed into a company, and commenced drilling them for the conflict which was to free poor Ireland from the hated British yoke. The British Government did not look with favor upon the patriotic motives of the Irish zealot, and he was forced to leave the land of his nativity between two days. He came to America, the refuge of his kind, the hasty nature of his flight necessitating his leaving his family in the "auld country." Arriving in America he enlisted in the United States army and was detailed to duty in the West. He was with the force sent to relieve the ill-fated Custer. He served his time, received his discharge, and settled in Bangor, Me., where he worked at his trade, the cooper's. He had saved up while in the army, and this, augmented by savings from his wages in the cooper shop, he sent to his wife that his family might join him in America. It was in 1873 when the woman and her two children, Jack and his sister, joined their husband and father. From Bangor the family moved to Williamsburg, N. Y. When he became old enough, Jack McAuliffe was taught the cooper's trade.

A coincident which he refers to with a good deal of interest now is the fact that while in the shop where he learned his trade he worked at the same bench which Dempsey, the middle-weight, had but a year or so before deserted for the prize-ring. He regards this fact as a lucky one, and treasures it up among his superstitions as a sort of mascot.

One day the young cooper read a graphic newspaper account of the Mitchell-Edwards fight, and it was that that decided him to be a fighter. It was about the same time that Billy Madden, who keeps a sporting saloon in Brooklyn, was arranging for an amateur boxing tournament, and McAuliffe entered and went into training. The first three whom he met in this tournament he defeated, despite the fact that he weighed but 112 pounds, while his opponents tipped the beam between 130 and 135 pounds. The others on the list outweighed him in about the same proportion, and Dempsey, who was backing the young lightweight, refused to let him enter the ring against them.

From that time on he entered every tournament that came along, and succeeded in winning several medals. In two of these contests he whipped Mike Cushing, who was at that time rated a man of his class. Among his other victims, who are too numerous to mention in detail, were the following lightweights whom old-timers will recognize as good men in their day: George Kline, Mike Harris, Jimmy Hogan, John Ellinsworth, Willie Ellinsworth, James Sperry, James Sterns, Harry White, Ed Manger and Joe Heiser.

A PROFESSIONAL.

The fight that made McAuliffe a professional occurred in the fall of 1883. It was with Jake Karcher, an employe in the coopershop where they were both employed. They had had high words over some difficulty and they decided to settle the dispute with bare knuckles for $25 a side. McAuliffe laid out the Dutchman in seventeen rounds.

By this time he had become well known among the frequenters of Madden's place as a fighter of considerable note, and when Jack Harper was challenging everybody to fight to the finish with "pillows" for $100 a side, Madden had no reluctance in backing young McAuliffe. The battle occurred in the spring of 1884. Harper went down for good in the sixth round.

This fight brought him into still greater prominence, and he became known in sporting circles as a marvel of strength, agility and science. Battles similar to the Harper fight were fought with such men as Buck McKenna, Billy Thiser, Patsey Hogan, Frank Doyle, Billy Fraser, Bob Welch, Billy Young, Mike Lally, all of whom he bested.

HIS RECORD.

One of McAuliffe's strangest peculiarities is his exceeding modesty. He has an aversion to rehearsing the details of his fights, and he thinks it an evidence of the most unbecoming conceit to preserve the newspaper accounts of his battles or mention of himself. No record of his fights is in existence, therefore, so far as the reporter could learn when he saw the lightweight champion at Beloit yesterday. But as near as the combined memories of McAuliffe and Madden could recall the finish fights the mention of them which follows below, omitting those already given, is correct, approximately, the time, stakes, kind of gloves, number of rounds and the victims' names being given:

Billy Fraser; early fall of 1886; twenty-one rounds; kid gloves; purse $1,000.

Harry Gilmore; late fall of 1886; twenty-eight rounds; kid gloves; stakes $1,000 a side.

Jim Carney; spring of 1887; seventy-four rounds; kid gloves; stakes $1,200 a side. This fight resulted in a draw, and is the only one in which McAuliffe failed to knock out his man.

Billy Dacy; fall of 1888; eleven rounds; skin gloves; purse, $1,000.

Sam Collier; December 16, 1888; one and a half rounds; skin gloves; for the gate receipts.

These fights conferred upon him the title of champion light-weight of America. Immediately after the Collier battle Jake Hyams, the champion of England, challenged McAuliffe to fight for the championship of the world. The challenge was accepted, and the battle occurred December 26, 1888, in the Palace Skating Rink, Brooklyn, the gate receipts going to the winner. Six-ounce gloves were used, and McAuliffe laid out his man stiff in the ninth round.

The Indianapolis matter has been settled, as the Press said a week ago it would be. Harry Welden of the Cincinnati Enquirer says that the graded salary plan "has been construed in so many ways and twisted and turned so often to fit different cases that it would give a first-class attorney a case of the horrors to decipher it. Even the men who framed the rule are not able now to tell just what it does mean. Poor little Nick Young had a herculean job wrestling with the plan, but, as usual, he has managed to figure out how the rule allows every club manager to do just as he pleases. Ice will be a foot thick and snowshoes and skates out of the market when Nick makes an enemy by giving an opinion on anything."

"I don't see what Harvard will do without Bates," said a Harvard man well posted on ball matters in that university. "I have looked over the material out there and don't find anything worth talking about. A team has everything to work for when they know that they have a strong pitcher to help them. It was a great misfortune for Harvard that it lost the services of a pitcher like Bingham. I think, too, that a great mistake was made last season in not keeping such a player as Campbell behind the bat. The outlook for this season at present is not very bright."

Macon's letter of last week was singularly incorrect. It stated that 150 men from the East would be at the Myer-McAuliffe fight and that odds of 4 and 5 to 1 were asked by Myer's friends. The facts are only fifty on a side are to be allowed at the ring side and the betting is even.—[Chicago Tribune.

Mutrie will be accommodated with as much money as he cares to put up on the New York-Brooklyn series. The Brooklyns have about as strong backers as any club in the country. Manager McGunnigle says that there is scarcely a man in the club that will not be anxious to back up with money the belief that Brooklyn will win two games out of the three.

Now that Cal McCarthy has won such unexpected honors in his fight with plucky Harry Walton of the Quaker City he will no doubt be matched with either Ike Weir, "The Belfast Spider," or Tommy Warren. Weir is the biggest game, and if Cal should even get a draw on with the Spider it would send his stock away up. There is no doubt but what his backers are anxious to make the match with Weir.

THE WILLIE MAIERS CASE.

One of the Brutal Dog-Catchers Makes a Confession to Judge Noonan.

Judge Noonan this morning received a letter from William Burke, one of the dog-catchers whom he held for the Grand-jury in $15,000 bond to answer to a charge of maltreating little Willie Maiers by catching him with a dog-wire and throwing him on their wagon. The letter is interesting, because in it Burke confesses his guilt. He claims the other two were innocent, but while he was the principal they are responsible as accessories. It is too late for Judge Noonan to interfere if he so desired, but he would not do so anyhow, as he would not accept Burke's word that the others are innocent, especially when the testimony of a dozen witnesses show that they aided and abetted in the offense. Burke is an ex-convict, having served a term at Jefferson City. He also makes a plea for himself in the letter, it will be seen. There are expressions in the communication which indicate that Burke, who is a rough, ignorant fellow, had outside assistance in wording the letter. The following is the letter:

To Hon. E. A. Noonan, Judge of the Court of Criminal Correction:

HONORABLE SIR—I write you this letter in order if possible to do an act of justice which ought to have been done at our examination conducted before Your Honor a month or so ago, but I trust to God it is not yet too late. It is the discharge of the two parties who are implicated with me, Robert Guerke and Mike Angelkraut, who are wrongfully deprived of their liberty through my ignorance of the law. I was not at the time of our hearing aware of the fact that I could by a word exonerate my companions from all blame. If I was it is needless to state that I would assuredly have done so. It is sad enough, your Honor, for even the guilty to be deprived of God's greatest boon to man, "sweet liberty." But, oh! how much more so the innocent. Therefore, I hope and pray that Your Honor will correct the sad mistake and thoroughly examine into the merits of their case as soon as conveneint to your Honor and act according to your sense of right and wrong. And as the poet says,

"Let justice be done though the Heavens fall."

As for the guilt of myself, I will rest content to leave that to a jury of twelve honorable and intelligent men to decide whether or not I have been guilty of such a fel and heinous crime by simply picking up and seating upon my wagon a vicious and depraved urchin who had wantonly struck me on the back with a huge stone; wherein have I been guilty of such offense? In what have I offended the majesty of the law? In short, it is "Much Ado About Nothing." Is not a dog-catcher permitted to defend himself as well as a police officer, or any other citizen? Is he not a paid employe of the city, working for the benefit of the city? Then why should he be not protected as well as the police officer or fireman? Hoping and praying that Your Honor will immediately act upon my confession, urged as it is by my conscience, in honor of justice and innocence, I remain, respectfully, ED BURKE.

A Dive Raided by Women.

LINCOLN, Neb., February 6.—Word has been received from Prosser, Adams County, that a band of fifty prominent ladies of that county made a crusade on a saloon and gambling-house at that place, Monday night, demolishing the entire establishment. The ladies attacked the building when it was crowded, with their aprons full of lumps of coal, breaking every window glass and cleaning out the establishment. The inmates scattered in every direction, some of the loungers being husbands of the women. Whisky and beer flowed freely into the gutter. The place has had a hard reputation for selling liquor without a license.

White Caps After a Witness.

MOUNT OREB, O., February 6.—Thirty-five masked men rode in here early yesterday morning and thoroughly searched the town for a negro named Jackson whom they intended to hang, but he was not found. Adam Burkes, the man who was whipped by the so-called "White Caps" last November, has brought suit against about fifty of their number in the Common Pleas Court of Highland County, and Jackson is a witness against them.

Heavy Damages.

BOSTON, Mass., February 6.—The Board of Referees, consisting of George Shattuck and B. S. Hopkins, to whom was left the matter of establishing the liability for the Somerville Beachery fire of 1884, which was said to have been caused by a spark from a locomotive, have decided against the Fitchburg Railroad. The road is, therefore, liable for the damages, which it is reported may exceed $250,000.

THE HATED DETECTIVES.

Action of the Arbeiter Bund to Get Rid of Spies.

CHICAGO, Ill., February 6.—Members of the Arbeiter Bund, to the number of about one hundred and fifty, met last night at Wendt's Hall. Speeches were made by several of the members who declared that there were police spies among them. After some discussion as to the best means of ridding the society of the hated detectives, it was resolved that each member should give his name, address and occupation to a committee appointed for this purpose. The committee will then investigate each member's good faith and any who may be found trying to practice any deception will be expelled. The members appear to be growing bolder and more aggressive in consequence of their victory over the police, and when the subject of spies was being discussed some very strong language was indulged in.
